The wording suggested that he might indeed give orders to Hitler. Himmler, becoming in effect the de facto German dictator. Reports in the past few ... from neutral countries have suggested that Goering might eventually head the German government in a Nazi effort to secure something less than unconditional surrender.)

A leader of the battered German armies in the east, Field Marshal Gen. Walther Von Model, sent a message of congratulations to Hitler today on his escape from assassination last week—perhaps an admission that the Nazis at least temporarily control the armed forces of the reich.

The message was broadcast by Transocean after the Nazis had declared they were preparing even more drastic measures to tighten the grip on the war-weary home front and Hitler's henchmen apparently had gained complete mastery of the German army.

At the same time Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the house of commons the reich government "had been at great pains" to prevent information on the uprising in Germany from leaking out and that he was unable to estimate the full extent of the trouble or to draw any inferences as to its likely development.

Pay Raise Approved To Keep City Hospital Nurses on Job

Council Committee Acts; Threatened Walkout Brings to Head Complicated Hospital Financial Situation.

City hospital nurses last night laid a walkout threat before city council, declaring they would walk off the job if salaries were not increased at once.

In a stormy session that lasted past midnight and then continued with the nurses and the council hospital committee in a closed session until 3:30 a. m. today, a compromise was reached.

The hospital committee of council won the agreement of the nurses to stay on the job by deciding to recommend salary increases—a move that will be accompanied by a recommendation that hospital room rates be increased and some new service charges added to the patients' bills.

The prolonged discussion that led to the final compromise agreement centered around one question—whether city officials are justified in recommending a salary increase at a time when the hospital is not paying its own way. Officials declared that the hospital is $5,411.97 in the red for operations the first six months of this year and that there are prospects for even a larger deficit in the last six months of the year.

Growing Problem

The crisis precipitated by the nurses' demands brought into the open a serious hospital financial problem that appears, on the basis of city records, to be getting larger as each month rolls by.

In the face of the deficit the hospital committee finally decided that the only solution it could see is to grant a pay increase sufficient to keep the nurses on the job and at the same time hand the hospital customers a bill large enough to cover the increased cost of operations.

The pay increases recommended by the committee to be presented to city council for final action, will add about $1,000 a month to the hospital payroll, and will be shared by nearly all of the more than 100 persons now on the payroll.

The increases recommended when the committee and the nurses broke up their session at 3:30 a. m. today are:

Two supervisors, increase from $135 and $140 respectively to $165 a month.

Head nurses (about 10 affected) increase from $120 to $130. (These had asked $137.50.)

Registered nurses for general duty (approximately 14 affected) increase from $115 to $130. (These had asked $140.25.)

Other increases and adjustments recommended by the committee would affect aids and various other hospital employes.

Salaries of the nurses include one free meal a day and free laundry service and two weeks' vacation with pay each year. An annual 12-day sick leave arrangement was abolished.

Comparison Made

The $115 monthly salary paid general duty registered nurses at the City hospital is somewhat low in comparison with other cities, officials who had corresponded with several hospitals in a preliminary study said today. Bucyrus, for example, pays $120, Sandusky $117.50, but there is agitation all over the state to have nurses' salaries increased as a result of a state meeting of nurses in May in which uniform Ohio salaries for nurses were proposed. The figures recommended by the hospital committee last night are within a few dollars of those proposed by the state association.

Rate Raise Recommended

To offset the approximately $1,000 a month increase in operating costs the recommended salary boosts would involve, the committee recommended that room rates at the hospital be increased 50 cents a day. This would yield approximately $1,000 a month on the basis of present operations. It also recommended that a charge of $1 a day be made for the care of infants in the maternity department where, in the past, no charge has been made for the children while the mother was a patient at the hospital. This would yield between $300 and $400 a month, it was estimated.

Plan Thorough Study

Council, as a whole, had heard little about the hospital problem, although the salary problem had been under study among a number of city officials, including the hospital committee Mayor H. L. Dowler and City Auditor Elmer E. Shaw for some time. However, the committee had planned to make a more complete study of the situation before making its recommendations to council. As a result of last night's meeting, in which the nurses appeared before council as a whole to present the walkout threat, council as a whole indicated it plans to have a thorough study of the hospital situation made, and to seek adjustments to put it on a sound operating basis.

More Employes

Some of the facts and figures brought out in last night's discussions included these:

Hospital operations in the first six months of this year were more costly and handled less

BUENOS AIRES RECALLS ENVOY

Escabar Ordered Home from Diplomatic Post in U. S. Capital.

By The Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES, July 25—The Argentine government announced last night that it had recalled its ambassador to Washington, Adrian Escobar.

A communique said the decision was taken "in view of statements regarding Argentina's position attributed to the United States secretary of state in dispatches from Washington."

The announcement said such statements, if confirmed, "would constitute expressions which the government and the people of Argentina could not accept without impairment of their dignity."

Although the communique failed to specify the statements attributed to Secretary Hull it apparently referred to dispatches from Washington which said Hull disclosed yesterday that the state department had sent a report to all Latin American nations setting forth Washington's views on Argentina.

At a press conference yesterday, the dispatches added, Hull said the United States was making known the basic policies which separate the attitude of American nations supporting the allied cause and of the attitude of the American nation supporting another cause.

The dispatches were approved for publication by Argentina authorities early today, about nine hours after their receipt here.

The recall of Escobar came several weeks after U. S. Ambassador Norman Armour and British Ambassador Sir David V. Kelly had been called home by their respective governments for consultations. Most Latin American ambassadors to Buenos Aires left Argentina about the same time and have not returned.

ALLIES WITHIN 10 MILES OF FLORENCE

By The Associated Press

ROME, July 25—Steadily driving the Germans from one defensive position after another; allied armies pushed within 10 miles of Florence and made limited gains elsewhere today along the Italian battlefront.

Offical reports from the battle sectors said the tempo of the fighting had dwindled as the Germans gradually gave ground while preparing their defenses along the north bank of the Arno river between Florence and the west coast. However, a crisis fight developed east of San Miniato when the Germans launched two counterattacks in an unsuccessful effort to prevent the Fifth army from extending its lines eastward toward Florence.

American troops have cleared the enemy from the south side of the Arno along a sector from the west coast to a point within 13 miles of Florence.

The greatest threat to the Nazi defenders of Florence, however, was from the south. Fifth and Eighth army units steadily drove the enemy back on an arc running southwest to southeast of the historic city.

Units moving up highway No. 2—main artery to Florence from the south—seized the town of Strada and captured more than 60 Germans. To the east of Strada

SOVIET FIGHTERS KNIFE NAZIS. All along the extensive Russian battleline, Soviet armies continue to shee their way through Hitler's legions in the east. The names in white (arrows) show the Russian commanders and the direction of drives of their forces. Zhukov's units are striking directly at the heart of Poland and are reported to be fighting in the streets of Lublin. Other Soviet forces to the north are said to be but a two-hour march from German East Prussia. Konev's Army has broken into the plains beyond Lwow and captured the rail junction of Rawa Ruska.

Extensive Remodeling of Marion Y. M. C. A. To Be Started Soon

Room Now Occupied by Auto Club To Be Taken Over; Work To Begin Aug. 1.

Renovation of several parts of the Marion Y. M. C. A. by which more room will be added to the present layout will be started about Aug. 1, according to Earl N. Hale, Y. M. C. A. general secretary. The work will involve changing the plan of the front half of the building's first floor, redecorating and improvement of a main stairway to the second floor and occupancy of the business room now rented to the Marion Auto club.

The change was decided on by the Y. M. C. A. Century House committee after the new Club Co-Ed, high school recreation center completed with cooperation of the Y's Men's Service club, took over the rear half of the downstairs, Mr. Hale said. A large room there was recently renovated to house a dance floor and orchestra stand for the club. A smaller room adjoining includes a soda fountain and booths.

Floor space beyond a small flight of stairs midway from the front door of the "Y" to the Club Co-Ed entrance will be turned into a lounge for members of the club. It has not yet been decided what to do with several office rooms along the south side of the open floor space. A check room may be installed for club Co-Ed.

New Lounge Planned

An open floor in front of the present central office and to the left as one enters the front door will be turned into a lounge for older young men with an eye to serving the needs of returned service men. This lounge will include the space now occupied by the "Y" reading room.

Another change will be made by cutting through a partition and opening the business room to the north of the present "Y" room. This room is located in the Y. M. C. A. building, but has been rented. The large entrance will be placed in the north wall between a large fireplace and the present rest rooms. The central office will be moved to the opening in order that activities throughout the entire main floor may be supervised from there. Entrance to dressing rooms and the pool in the basement will also be changed so that it may be closer to central office. Candy and cold drinks will also be sold from a counter located there. Rest rooms will be moved into the new room and modern facilities installed.

Ping pong tables now in the space to be occupied by the men's lounge will be moved into the new room, Mr. Hale said. Entrance to the entire first floor will be gained by the present door.

Stairway Changes

A large stairway leading to the second floor will be improved and its color scheme brightened from the present brown and yellow. New lights have already been installed there. Four rooms upstairs are being remodeled. One used by five women's groups has been completed with a color scheme centering around a soft blue. An adjoining powder room has pink painted walls. Furniture and drapes in the room were chosen to harmonize with the walls. The women's room occupies the southwest corner of the second floor. To the north is the "Varsity Room" where dinners and large group meetings are held. This is nearing completion at the present time.

AERIAL GUNNER NEAR MORRAL MISSING

Parents of Staff Sgt. Curtis Borror Jr. Get Message.

Staff Sgt. Curtis Borror Jr. has been reported missing in action after a bombing raid over Truk Island in the central Pacific area June 3, according to word received recently by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Borror of near Morral.

Official notice that Sgt. Borror was missing in action came today when the war department in Washington released a dispatch containing the names of missing Ohioans.

Staff. Sgt. Borror is assistant engineer and gunner on a B-24. He has been stationed overseas since the first part of March this year. His first overseas post was in the Hawaiian islands. Later he wrote to his parents that he was stationed in the Admiralty islands and was stationed there at the time he was reported missing as far as his parents know.

He had been wounded in the arm in a raid over Rabaul, New Britain, March 21, this year. Sgt. Borror was the only crew member wounded in the raid. He was a graduate of Commercial Point High school and attended Ohio State university.

Before entering service he did farm work, and was employed at the Curtiss-Wright airplane plant at Columbus at the time he joined the Army Air corps.

Western Union Official Defends Roosevelt Wire

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 25—J. L. Egan, vice president of Western Union, says President Roosevelt's message of congratulations to Senator Truman presumably "constituted an exception to the ban" made by the President on such messages during war time and "our people were correct in accepting it."

The message, dispatched to Senator Truman, Democratic candidate for vice president, last Saturday began with the sentence: "I send you my heartiest congratulations on your victory." During the Republican convention, Western Union refused to accept a congratulatory message from Wendell L. Willkie to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Russian Troops Drive 50 Miles from Warsaw

Capture of Lublin and Lukow Splits German Forces Facing Red Armies in Poland.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, July 25—Swift Russian columns paced by charging tanks, Kuban Cossack and mud-spattered infantry, were less than 50 miles today from Warsaw after splitting German armies in the heart of Poland by capturing Lublin and Lukow.

The Russian drive sent the spearheaded plains-crossing Red Army 40 miles forward in 24 hours. More than 12 hours ago they were on the approaches of Siedlce (which the Germans said they had evacuated) 50 miles east of the Polish capital.

The Soviets were less than 20 miles from the Wisla (Vistula) river which flows by Warsaw and forms the last natural barrier to Germany itself. A swift crossing of the Wisla would outflank the Warsaw region and expose the garrison of the city of 1,265,700 to attack from the south.

German Silesia lies within 150 miles of advanced Russian forces which splashed across the San river.

Red pilots reported scenes of panic around Warsaw, with roads choked with transport. The main frontal assault toward Warsaw was 50 miles wide and indications were that other army groups from the no the east Bug river and from captured Lublin were about to join in a coordinated assault on the capital, 310 miles from Berlin.

(The German communique reported bitter fighting continuing inside Lwow, third city of Poland already bypassed and 60 miles behind Red army vanguards. The Nazis asserted their Lublin garrison still was resisting "superior enemy forces attacking from all sides.")

Russian Positions

Positions of other Russian army groups as shown by communiques were:

Within two hours forced march of East Prussia.

Frontally attacking by-passed Brest-Litovsk, cut off and isolated far behind the front.

Less than 70 miles southeast of the Baltic port of Riga.

Frontally attacking Bialystok on the Leningrad-Warsaw railroad.

Forty miles west of invested Lwow, with the capture of Mosciska.

Virtually surrounding Daugavpils in the Latvian republic after capturing 80 towns to the northeast.

Outflanking Kaunas in the Lithuanian republic.

Virtually at the border of southern Estonia after advancing nine miles northwest of Pskov.

Thirteen miles southwest of captured Lublin at Belchatow.

Fourteen miles north of Stanislawow, gateway to the Carpathian passes into Czecho-Slovakia.

103 miles east of Krakow.

120 miles east of Lodz and 12 miles east of Radom.

(The Germans said the Russians were preparing another offensive north of Iasi, 171 miles northeast of the Rumania oil center of Ploesti.)

Southeast of Narva, the Russians resumed their attack from their bridgehead inside the Soviet Estonian republic in the 30-mile corridor between Lake Peipus and the Baltic sea. This seemed to be an offensive along the gulf of Finland toward the Estonian capital of Tallinn.

Russia's seven great army groups moved westward with air support never matched in the east, brushing aside any obstacles encountered. It appeared that the next few hours would determine whether Hitler would attempt a stand on the Wisla Fleeing groups of dusty, tattered Germans were declared rushing for the closest bridges on the river.

Poles Go Along

Members of the new National Committee of Poland went west with the Red army toward Warsaw, keeping contact with the seat of the temporary governing body at Chelm. In each captured Polish town (9,000 square miles of German-held Poland have been captured), the committee opened recruiting offices for the Polish army fighting beside the Soviets. Hundreds of administrations were established in liberated towns.

The fall of the rail city of Lublin was announced by Marshal Stalin in a special order of the day and shortly afterward a special communique was issued declaring the Germans had lost 539,860 troops killed and captured since the Soviet summer offensive got under way June 23.

These casualties were reported inflicted by four Russian armies. At present there are at least seven Red armies battering the Nazis westward on an 800-mile front from the Baltic to the Carpathian mountains.

In the encirclement of Nazi forces at Brody, northwest of Lwow, the forces of Marshal Konev alone were reported to have captured 17,175 Germans and to have found 30,00 dead in the area.

Since Marshall Rokossovsky's forces crossed the 1939-41 Ger-

YANKS TIGHTEN GRIP ON TINIAN

On Guam Another Major Jap Airstrip Isolated by U. S. Invaders.

By The Associated Press

U. S. PACIFIC HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, July 25—Fighting Americans, bent on complete conquest of the Marianas, have stormed almost a mile inland on Tinian and captured the western third of the island's main airdrome.

On Guam, 125 miles to the south, they have isolated another major airstrip and are hammering at the approaches to Agana, capital of the former U. S. possession.

On Tinian, where the Marines landed Sunday at 7:00 a. m., Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said in a communique "Our casualties through July 23 (Sunday) were light. The situation is considered well in hand."

American casualties on Guam through July 22 were 318 killed, 110 missing and 1,500 wounded.

War Correspondent Clinton Green said Marines went ashore on Tinian after probably the greatest half-hour all, naval and land-based bombardment yet concentrated on a single island in the Pacific.

Jap Fire Weak

The Japanese did not open fire until the ninth landing wave, and the only with mortars and machineguns—"lightly compared to Saipan." The Marines progressed at least 600 yards during the first two hours.

Green said Tinian's civilian population of 15,000 apparently went underground as in the early days at Saipan, three miles north of Tinian. Hiding in the bushes were several children, including one 18 months old. They were taken to Saipan.

Only major island in the southern Marianas upon which Americans have not yet landed is Rota, midway between Guam and Tinian. It was attacked by carrier aircraft Sunday.

Bombers from the Nimitz area and from the New Guinea theater, announced by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, continued joint assaults upon the Caroline islands.

FRANCE BATTLE LINE HIT BLOW FROM AIR

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 25—Allied air forces hurled powerful waves of heavy, medium and light bombers against German positions at both ends of the Normandy battle front today to clear the way for American, British and Canadian troops making a great coordinated ground thrust.

The allied aerial assault in support of the Normandy ground forces followed far-flung night operations by the RAF which included an attack on Stuttgart by a fleet of perhaps 1,000 heavy bombers and a Mosquito raid on Berlin. Other RAF bombers hit at Frankfort and Aachen, attacked flying bomb sites in northern France, laid mines in enemy waters and attacked German shipping in the English channel.

From these and other operations 25 planes were reported missing. Two of these were lost in an attack on oil storage tanks in France.

Heavy bombardment by all types of allied bombers preceded the forenoon drive by the American first army against the Germans in the Lessay-Periers-St. Lo Line.

On the other end of the front RAF medium bombers blasted German concentrations in the La Hogue wood only 2,000 yards ahead of allied positions southeast of Caen.

The attack on Berlin by the Mosquitos with their two-ton bomb loads was the second night running the reich capital had been hit and the 14th time since D-day.

4,000 PLANES BLAST PATH FOR ADVANCE

U. S. and British Open Greatest Coordinated Ground Drive Since D-Day.

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 25—Supported by a massive armada of some 4,000 warplanes, the American and British armies burst forth at both ends of the 100-mile Normandy front today, and shoved the Germans backward in probably the greatest coordinated ground drive since D-day.

Three thousand U. S. planes, including a record mission of 1,500 heavy bombers, smashed at the Germans opposing the new American offensive, location of which was not disclosed.

Hundreds of other planes supported the British-Canadian push south of Caen. In quick initial gains of more than a mile, British-Canadian tanks and infantry battling toward open tank country captured two towns despite fierce resistance by at least two German SS armored divisions.

"Fighting continues very strenuously on both the American and British sectors," supreme headquarters declared.

U. S. Drive Secret

Throughout the day, headquarters kept secret all details of the American land drive. The U. S. First army has been strung along a winding front from fallen St. Lo to Lessay on the west coast.

(Berlin said the American attacked from the area northwest of St. Lo, and declared a small penetration had been sealed off.)

The British Second army, hammering along on a four-mile front down the coast to Falaise, captured St. Martin De Fontenay and Verrieres and street fighting raged in May-Sur-Orne. These towns are some five miles below Caen.

Fighting also swirled for the town of Tilly-La-Campagne. Front dispatches said there was savage, close-quarter fighting in indecisive battle after the British-Canadians cracked through the outer crust of German defenses and ran into a bristling series of anti-tank positions and machine-gun nests. The Germans threw in batches of tanks to hold their lines.

The British jumped off before dawn, and the American attack opened shortly before noon. Huge artillery barrages supported both drives.

Besides the big bombers, the American air fleets aiding Lt.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley's troops included medium and light craft spraying German defenses with bullets and fragmentation bombs.

The double offensives broke a four-day stalemate in France.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, side-stepping a formidable German anti-tank screen southeast of Caen, sent his forces piling southward on the road to Falaise along a four-mile front, heading toward firm, open ground excellent for tank battles.

Road Leads to Paris

The ridge highway which the British and Canadians were following leads to Falaise, birthplace of William the Conqueror, and to Paris. In the early hours of the push, while the advancing troops still were shielded by ground mists, the British and Canadians reached May-Sur-Orne for an advance of 700 yards and Verrieres for a gain of 1,500 yards. They also reached Tilly-La-Campagne, nearly a mile east of the road. All these points are about five miles below Caen. Bad weather checked Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's offensive last week.

However, a limited force of RAF Mitchell medium bombers hammered German concentrations a little over a mile ahead of the British-Canadian lines last night and again this morning. The ground mist provided a natural screen for the advancing troops. The operation broke a four-day weather-enforced lull on the Normandy front.

Montgomery achieved an element of surprise — although the Germans for two days have been forecasting a drive—by shifting the weight of his attack during the lull five miles to the west. This shift was from the southeasterly highway toward Vimont and Paris, 120 miles away, to the more southerly highway to Falaise.

Air Attack Successful

British ground troops signalled the air force that last night's bombardment concentrated in the La Hogue wood southeast of Caen had been "most effective". The weather today was described as good with virtually a cloudless sky.

It appeared that Montgomery was side-stepping the hidden wall of anti-tank guns just southwest of Troarn which Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had managed to

Two Democrats Out Of Delaware County Race

Special to The Star
DELAWARE, July 25 — Harry Weinstock and Marion Jolley, both candidates for nomination for Delaware county offices on the Democratic ticket in the August primaries have withdrawn from the race, according to Presley H. Said, Delaware county election board clerk. Weinstock was his party's unopposed candidate for nomination for treasurer and Jolley was candidate for nomination for sheriff. No reason was given by either man for his withdrawal.
Withdrawal of the two candidates leaves only four Democratic candidates for county office. The Delaware county central committee has power to fill all vacancies occurring 40 days before the election, but no action has been taken on replacing the two candidates, Chairman Russell J. Kissner said yesterday.

MAIN ST. BUILDING REMODELING BEGUN

G. S. Nelson Acquires Former Schaffner Property

George S. Nelson of 254 East Church street, who several months ago purchased the three-story South Main street building where the Harden Music store was located until recently, has begun work redecorating both the first and second floors, getting the downstairs room ready for a store he will open after the war, and converting the second floor into two apartments, which will be completed in from 60 to 90 days. The third floor will be used for storage.

In connection with the work, he has arranged with the Baldauf Construction Co. to replace some of the windows at the front of the second and third floors that were regarded hazardous.

Two weeks ago Mr. Nelson moved an electrical shop from the basement of his home to the rear of the South Main street building, and will operate that until he can open the front of the store with electrical merchandise after the war.

He formerly operated an electrical appliance store on East Center street, but for the past year had been working as employment manager at the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

The room he is to occupy was the former home of the H. Schaffner Furniture Co. The Harden music store which has been in that room for the last seven years is now located in the Masonic Temple building, on the west side of the street.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

NEW EDUCATION PROPOSED

Editor of The Star:

We must require a different education and educational system from what are now in operation, serving the aim of this world and education for living in happiness and peace.

If religion has so failed in its education of people for this life, how can it be said to have succeeded in educating anybody for life in heaven.

People want and are now looking for a true, soul satisfying education to prepare them to live in this world, the kind God creates for them.

Why religion has not educated the people even to get along with one another now, without war and agressions. What war has religion prevented and what war has religion provoked?

Since it is to be a world of unity, with peace, cooperation, mutual understanding and respect and brotherly love among all enjoying life.

Then there must be one basic education for all persons alike. It matters not of what nationality or color they may be at present.

The education must be one that fits all and that is common to all because it must prepare all for the one end — living together happily forever in the goodness of God through His government.

I am going to give you one lesson, you will find in the textbook of instruction the lesson for you: is to read and follow God's Ten Commandments, (Ex. XX); the moral law.

MORE POWER FOR ALLIED WAR BIRDS!

New Sohio 100-Octane Refinery Supplies Millions of Gallons of Aviation Fuel Each Week

"SUPER FORTS BOMB JAPAN AGAIN!"

"6,000 ALLIED PLANES RAKE INVASION FRONT!"

"BERLIN HIT BY BIGGEST DAY-NIGHT RAID!"

. . . Headlines that trace the path to victory! Behind them are epic stories of men—and planes—and gasoline.

One story of historic importance is that of Sohio's giant new 100-octane refinery—now making possible 1500 fighter plane sorties daily over the Channel to the invasion front.

Sohio EX-TANES, powerful petroleum ingredients for stepping-up combat fuel, have long been flowing from all Sohio refineries. Now, this great new plant in Cleveland adds millions more gallons a week to Standard Oil's aviation fuel output.

The Allies' relentless air attack calls for fabulous and unprecedented quantities of aviation gasoline. These requirements must be met—will be met. Sohio and Sohio workers pledge there will be no let-up in 100-octane production.

When peace comes again, these advanced refining facilities and the experience gained in making super fighting fuels will bring Ohioans the finest Sohio gasolines ever made.

ANNOUNCEMENT is being made of the marriage of Miss Harriet C. Barcroft daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Barcroft of Columbus, to Robert B. Livensparger, son of Mrs. Mary Livensparger of 461 Summit street and the late Chester E. Livensparger. The double ring service was read by Rev. Robert Byler in the Maple Grove Methodist church in Columbus at 2:15 p. m. on June 18.

A program of organ music was presented by Mrs. Stella Bishop Alden, preceding the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street length dress of pale blue, trimmed in white appliqué, with white accessories. She carried a white Bible, covered with a corsage of white roses from which satin ribbons fell in a shower arrangement. The maid of honor and only attendant was Mrs. Marvin Frederick of West Lafayette, Ind., who wore a lilac dress with white accessories and carried a corsage of yellow roses. Karl Livensparger served his brother as best man and ushers were Robert Mills and Thomas Waite of Columbus and George Tanaka of Detroit.

For her daughter's wedding and the reception which followed at the Barcroft home, Mrs. Barcroft wore a dusty rose afternoon dress. Mrs. Livensparger wore a light blue frock with white accessories. Both wore corsages of white carnations. The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Dora B. Emery of Colorado Springs attended the wedding. She was dressed in black and white and wore a corsage of white roses.

The bride and bridegroom are both graduates of Ohio State University. Mrs. Livensparger was a nursery teacher in Franklin Settlement in Detroit, before her marriage. Mr. Livensparger is associated with the engineering department of Westinghouse in Baltimore. The couple left for their new home in Baltimore following the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lemnitzer of 167 East Washington street gave a surprise party Thursday night in honor of their son, Richard Lemnitzer, who left Saturday to begin his Army training at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind. Guests included Fred Ferry who also went to the training center, Flight Officer William Temple who is home on leave from Italy, and Mr. and Mrs. David Evans of Newark. Mr. and Mrs. Lemnitzer also gave a dinner on Sunday, July 16, honoring their son and Fred Ferry.

Congressman Schedules Meetings in District

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 25—Rep. J. Harry McGregor of West Lafayette, O., will hold a series of two-day conferences in each of the six counties comprising his congressional district, the seventeenth, he announced yesterday.

The congressman said the sessions were to "better acquaint myself with the problems and suggestions of the people of the district."

The meetings will be held in courthouses at the following cities: Ashland, Aug. 7 and 8; Mansfield, Aug. 9 and 10; Mt. Vernon, Aug. 11 and 12; Coshocton, Aug. 14 and 15; Newark, Aug. 16 and 17; Delaware, Aug. 18 and 19.

ENVOY

withdrawal of Argentina's ambassadors to other American capitals or whether Escobar is to be the only one affected.

In the latter event, the move would be interpreted in Washington to mean the Argentine government is pursuing a policy of trying to drive a wedge into Pan-American unity and split off some of the South American countries from the United States.

To combat this the other American nations have insisted on taking no action regarding Argentina except after consultation among themselves and agreement on a course satisfactory to all. This was stressed particularly by Secretary of State Hull at his press conference yesterday when he disclosed that a statement on policy would be issued but that the need for consultation with all the American governments would delay it several days.

Despite the recall from Buenos Aires of U. S. Ambassador Norman Armour and diplomatic representatives of other Latin American republics, the decision of the Argentine government to withdraw Escobar came as something of a surprise.

Pro-Argentina sources here have interpreted the recalls of ambassadors from Buenos Aires as presaging a shift in feeling and the impending recognition of President Edelmiro Farrell's regime.

Act To End Strike At Cleveland War Plant

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 25—Company and union representatives met today in an effort to end a work stoppage at war busy Ohio Crankshaft Co. where approximately 3,000 employes are idle.

Labor Conciliator Jack P. Walsh said the men protested yesterday the discharge of two inspectors.

The company, engaged in manufacturing crankshafts for airplanes, trucks and tanks, asserted the inspectors were discharged for "insubordination in refusing to transfer to other stations." Spokesmen for the CIO United Automobile Workers said the contract called for discussion on such transfers.

"Pin Worms Can't Harm MY Child!"

Better learn the Truth, Mother!

You may think that Pin-Worms are just a harmless nuisance. Or you may think that this tormenting, embarrassing infection strikes only certain types of people.

Don't you believe it! Rich or poor, young or old—anybody, anywhere can have Pin-Worms. And these crawling pests, living and growing inside the human body, can cause real distress. So watch out for the warning signs that may mean this nasty infection — the aggravating rectal itch; also, uneasy stomach, bed-wetting, nervous fidgeting and uneven appetite.

If you suspect Pin-Worms, get a package of P-W tablets right away, and be sure to follow the directions. P-W is the new Pin-Worm treatment developed by the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son, America's leading specialists in worm medicines.

Important Scientific Discovery

The small, easy-to-take P-W tablets contain a remarkable drug (gentian violet) that is being hailed by high medical authorities as the most effective means ever discovered for dealing with Pin-Worms. Thanks to this important new scientific discovery, P-W works in a special, gentle way to destroy stubborn Pin-Worms.

Ask your druggist: P-W for Pin-Worms!

"I TRIED EVERY LAXATIVE I COULD FIND!"

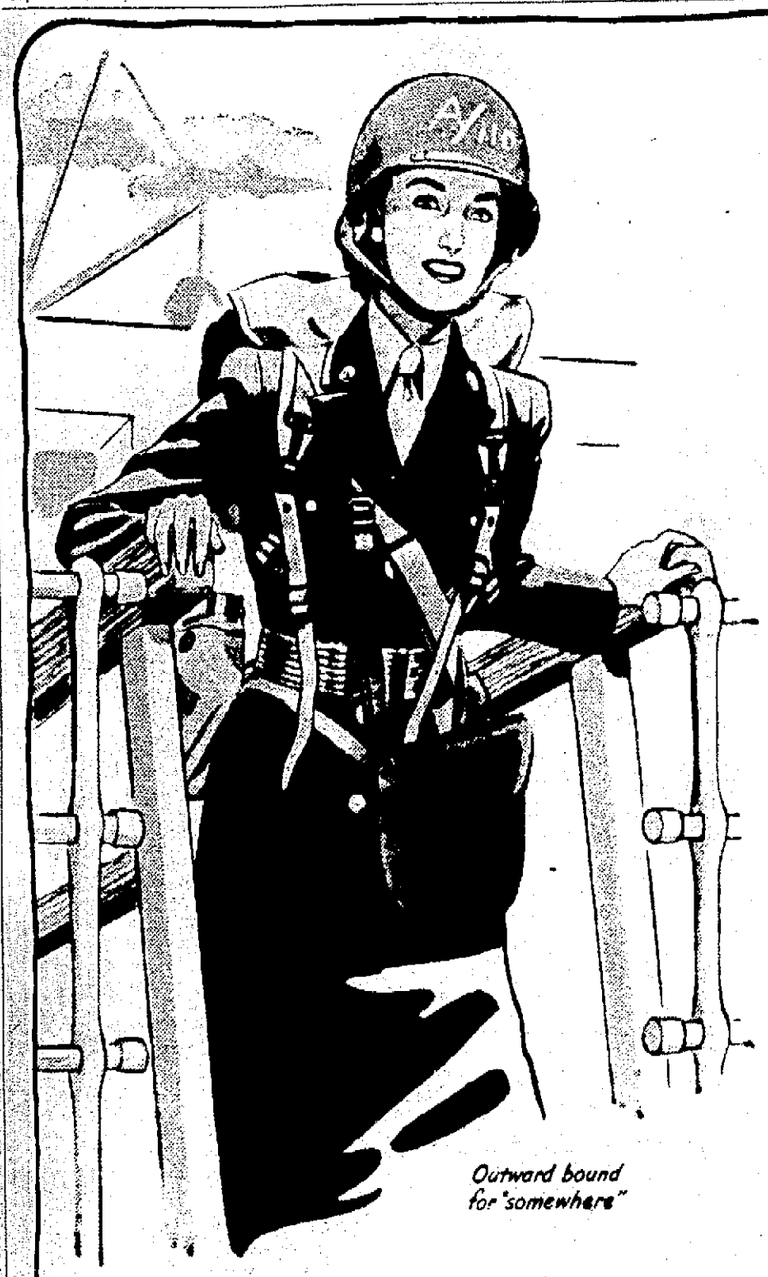
Happy at Finding Relief With Cereal Food!

If you've often despaired of finding lasting relief—read this unsolicited letter!

"I cannot forgive myself for not trying your KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN many years ago. My constipation kept me hunting in for money to pay for laxatives. I tried every one I could find, but got only slight relief. I have been eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN for three weeks now, and am as regular as can be!" Mrs. Thomas Lewis, 5015½ Fourth Avenue, N., St. Petersburg, Fla.

Scientists say one common cause of constipation is lack of sufficient "cellulosic" elements in the diet! But Nature has made KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN one of her most effective sources of these important elements! They help the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic contents for easy, natural evacuation. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Doesn't "sweep you out"! It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If you have constipation of this type, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly with milk and fruit, or mixed with other cereals. Drink plenty of water. See if you, too, don't get real help! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.



"I'd rather be with them— than waiting for them"

I'LL ADMIT there's a funny lump in my throat . . .

But here I am, loaded with my overseas pack, climbing up the side of the biggest boat I've ever seen—and glad of it.

Glad I said "good-by" to civilian life months ago—and went into the WAC. Glad I went through all the training and on to active duty.

For, as a Wac, I'm really working for victory. Sharing the hard part of war. And the glory that will come.

I'd rather be with them—in the Army . . .

Than waiting back home—thinking up things to make the time go by—listening to the news—wondering when it'll all be over.

Yes, I'm in the Army and on my way—and I'm glad to the bottom of my heart!

Successor To Sen. Truman

THE problem of finding a successor to Sen. Truman in the role of chairman of the committee to investigate the national defense program which has been his mark of distinction, can't be solved by pulling a name out of a hat.

Sen. Truman made his committee headline news by digging into many things it would have been easier to let alone. The publicity he got out of it—a committee chairman's chief reward—was earned. It made the senator nationally famous, but it also did inestimable good in maintaining popular morale. The public came to believe that while the Truman committee was on the job, no war scandal of major importance would be permitted to develop.

It is important to continue that reassurance. Sen. Truman has announced he intends to resign as chairman of the committee immediately, for reasons he does not explain clearly, but probably because he cannot give the job the time it requires. Unfortunately, his resignation will bring happiness to some quarters which might have been gone over by the committee—and something should be done promptly to prove that the senate has no intention of letting so important a group die on the vine from neglect.

The Russian Touch

RUSSIAN realism in World war II has reached a symbolic climax with the march of more than 57,000 German prisoners of war through the streets of Moscow. The procession was headed by upward of a hundred captured generals, colonels and other officers.

In keeping with the occasion—more of the Russian touch—there was no exultation. Spectators had been instructed to heap no abuse on the Hitlerites. They merely watched them shuffle past under the guns and bayonets of their Russian guards. It was not a parade. There were no bands. The marchers did not even keep step. They just walked through the streets of the capital of the country they tried to destroy—on their way farther east, to live miserably in prison camps.

There have been fancier ideas about how to convince the Germans they were misled by the superman myth, but Russian realism probably has hit upon the best one—a long, humiliating walk between lines of people who refused to take the myth seriously.

Japan's Expendables

THE landing of United States troops on Guam brings the Pacific war back to one of its tragic starting points. Today, it is the Japanese defenders of Guam, not a handful of U. S. marines, who are expendable. Today, instead of the Japanese Navy holding the whip hand in the western Pacific, it is the United States Navy which moves as it pleases.

Invasion of Guam, if it should come to the ears of American held prisoners of Japan, will be notice that the rescue which never came in their hopeless battle at the war's beginning is coming now. Guam is only one of many points now secure in American hands—and all the rest belonged to Japan. Eventually, the Philippines will be recovered—also at great cost—but what never was plain before is plain now. In the future, the security being bought at such great cost must never be neglected again.

Guam's neglect was typical of the nation's blindness, typical of its attitude of appeasement, typical of the petty jealousies and unpardonable stupidities which gave Japan its chance to exact a blood ransom from the United States for the security we left unguarded.

They've Read It, Senator

SEN. TAFT says he suspects the critics who are jumping on him for being the author of the Hatch act amendment regulating published material circulated in the armed forces by the government at public expense may not have read the amendment at all, because they are making so many misstatements.

That may be true of some persons who are interested only in baiting Sen. Taft—a popular pastime among a great many Americans who are using him as the whipping boy for their frustrated dreams of being able to put on their pants quicker than one leg at a time. But it is not true of the rest, senator.

They know what the amendment says, and it burns them up because it means they can't use public money to load down the armed forces with a lot of reading matter they didn't ask for and wouldn't read, but which would satisfy the zealots' everlasting itch to try to ram their ideas down the other fellow's throat.

So They Say—

Of approximately 90,000,000 adults in the United States, 27,000,000 don't know the Japanese have taken the Philippines.—Hadley Cantril, director Princeton University Office of Public Opinion Research.

The one thing that can unite men of all races is the gospel of peace, the only genuine relationship between human beings that can keep them human.—Rev. Paul Sherer, New York pastor.

Enough steel is produced by American mills every half hour during the day to build and equip a destroyer.

News Behind the News

Democrats Believed Neither Elated Nor Disgusted with Convention Results.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 25 — It was an interesting crowd of [illegible] officer holders who trudged back from Chicago. The look on their faces could raise a [illegible] one. Not that any [illegible] was disgusted—or [illegible]. They just persistently [illegible] that nothing was a matter of [illegible].

Apparently also did Mr. Roosevelt who went off to the Pacific coast.

Even normally cruety Interior Secretary Ickes for instance had his chagrin over the defeat of Mr. Wallace by saying:

"We nominated the second best man."

What they did at Chicago in the last analysis was to form a purely practical political working arrangement for the campaign between the city bosses on the one hand and the left-wingers, even CIO, on the other. Senator Truman will bring into the campaign a background of support from both of these elements including the old Pendergast machine in Missouri.

Machines All Set

National Chairman Hannegan has his own machine in St. Louis. Chicago's Mayor Ed Kelly, who was probably the convention's most important manipulator, now has the most complete machine in the country. He directs everything there now, although some insiders say the apparatus has really become too big and is showing signs of cracking. With Ed Flynn and Hague from both sides of the Hudson there can be no convention.

Now they did not kick Wallace out because he is a radical. He had just become personally unpopular and they wanted to win. If the New Dealers had a more powerful candidate than Wallace, I do not believe Truman would have received the nomination. The bosses simply got their political working arrangements with labor with their own man instead of taking the CIO choice. Frankly then they improved their chances of a November victory.

Will this arrangement win the election? I do not believe the average Democratic leader here is confident, the battle is yet to be won. A city-CIO combination for instance is actually a small minority of the country.

Need More To Win

If Roosevelt is to win, it must be accomplished by the force of war developments, peace negotiations or by his personality. So while I would say the party helped its chances by relinquishing Wallace, none of the power exhibited at Chicago was enough to win in itself.

This year with the war likely to break before the election, with the peace unsettled, it is probable people may take the election more as a matter of course. Extremely light votes have appeared already in the primaries. In Idaho, at the height of the European invasion, candidates got no crowds and the voters could not be induced to come from farms and war factories and register. In North Dakota, the vote was light despite the war senatorial contest. In Maryland, Democratic Senator Tydings found unusually little applause given to a Roosevelt speaker at a Roosevelt pep rally and Candidate Senator Pat McCarran reports people are not interested in talking politics.

The country may be in the same peculiar mood as the Democratic politicians.

World War a Year Ago

JULY 25, 1943

By The United Press

Premier Benito Mussolini and his Cabinet ousted in Italy; King Victor Emmanuel accepts "resignation," and installs Marshal Pietro Badoglio as Prime Minister and orders him to form a military government "to continue the conduct of the war."

In Sicily, Allied troops press toward Messina.

Red Army troops capture another 30 villages and halt incessant German counterattacks and nearly encircle the enemy base at Orel.

British and American aircraft strike heavily at Hamburg and Kiel, in Germany.

More than 200 Allied planes bomb Japanese base at Munda, in the Solomons.

Daily Bible Thought

Christians are doing just this in concentration camps today. The blood of the martyrs has been the seed of the church: "But I say unto you, love your enemies, and pray for them that persecute you." —Matt. 5:44.

Today and Tomorrow

Political Party Conventions Absorb Shocks and Preserve Unity Among People.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE American parties have once again performed their function which is that of absorbing shocks, blunting differences and preserving unity among our people. The divisions within each party are much more real than the division between the two parties, and the peculiar virtue of our political system is that no party, which moves to win an election, can be sectional, class, or ideological.

It must reconcile, compromise and accommodate the factions within it, and managing this is the business of the professional politicians. They do it with weasel words, with deals, with much buncombe and insincerity. But the net result is to weld together rather than to divide this vast and heterogenous nation.

If this were not done, it is hard to see how the country could be governed. If this were not done by the party system, it is difficult to see how it would be done at all.

The contest for vice-president at the Democratic convention showed the system at work. Mr. Wallace undoubtedly had the largest and most fervent personal following. But it was a faction within the party, and this faction would have divided the party, and at the same time it would have sharpened the division between the two parties.

Narrows Gap

Senator Truman's nomination damps down these factional differences, bridging divisions within the party and narrowing the gap between the parties. This is the process of accommodation by which our working democracy achieves, if not brilliance and inspiration, at least unity and collaboration.

One phase of the contest was between the professional politicians and the new political organization of labor. The politicians belong to the city machine which in the northern states, are in control of the permanent strongholds of the Democratic party. They were bound to seek a compromise with their historic allies in the southern wing of the party. Mr. Hillman and the labor bosses then found that they had to take their place within the party and not above it—that the party was superior to their faction as it was to the rebellious southerners.

Thus the American party system once more proved itself stronger than a sectional and a class movement. This is its function and, because it performs it, however, inelegantly, the party system survives and flourishes.

Both parties have recognized that as of the present moment, the main question at issue is whether or not it is safe to change the administration. This may not be the main question by November, for events are moving rapidly. But if the election were held now, this would be the issue.

Elusive Issue

It is by no means easy to define this issue truly. The Democratic orators sought to make it out that Mr. Roosevelt is personally indispensable, that he alone carries locked up in his breast the magic knowledge to see us through the war and the peace.

How far they will make the country believe it is likely to depend on how Gov. Dewey conducts himself. His task is to find a way of demonstrating his own availability as a leader in war and peace; he will not do that just by talking about the New Deal, the bureaucrats, Mayor Hague, Mr. Hillman, states' rights, and pretending that Gen. Marshall and Admiral King can take care of the war.

The degree to which Mr. Roosevelt seems indispensable will depend on how far Mr. Dewey makes himself available. The old political maxim will hold good: that you cannot beat a horse with no horse.

A very important consideration is almost certain to be how far Mr. Dewey intends to go in retaining or replacing seasoned officials who are carrying the burden of the war. He will have to find a way of distinguishing the tired old men and the weaklings who ought to be replaced from the many less conspicuous men who have been the organizers of victory, and who alone have all the threads of knowledge about our affairs in their hands. Mr. Dewey might very well bring to them a fresh energy and precision and purpose which Mr. Roosevelt has for many long months failed to impart to them, and they could provide the experience which manifestly Mr. Dewey does not yet have.

The Working Team

As we look closer at the question we shall feel, I think, that the question is not only Roosevelt versus Dewey, but who and what is to be changed in the working organization of the war and peace if there is to be a change of parties. The man at the top is not indispensable if there is an available substitute. But the teams which are doing the work, though they could be strengthened and improved, cannot without grave risk be turned out of office wholesale and replaced by new untried men.

The more frankly Mr. Dewey recognizes his problem, the better his chance of solving it successfully. To prove that he understands it is one of the best ways open to him to prove that he is capable of solving it. It is a problem he is quite capable of understanding for it is an administrative problem, and he is without doubt one of the most surefooted administrators to come forward in our time.

We must hope that he will not be diverted from this central issue by advisers who do not like to face the realities. It is of the highest national importance that this country should not be left in the uncomfortable predicament where one man seems indispensable, and where the fate of the nation is identified with his achievements, his age, his health, his moods, his talents and his idiosyncrasies. Win or lose, Mr. Dewey has a great work to do: to show that this country can take care of itself, and do its part, and fulfill its destiny because of the energies and virtue of the nation not solely because of one man.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday, July 25, 1934.

Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, the little dictator who had ruled Austria for two years, was reported from Vienna to have been shot and fatally wounded in the course of a Nazi "putsch" to capture the government of Austria. Police said Dollfuss had resigned.

Authorities at Chicago identified the "girl in red" who had been with John Dillinger shortly before he was killed by federal bullets, as Mrs. Anna Sage, 42. Police had arrested her just around the corner from the Chicago theater where Dillinger had met death the preceding Sunday night. She told police she only knew Dillinger as "Jim Lawrence" until after gunman died in a gun battle with the FBI.

News reports from Germany told of trouble Hitler and the Nazi party were having with the Stahlhelm, a powerful association of German war veterans, with an open break between the storm troopers and the association threatened.

Leonard Barry, 23, of south of Kenton, was killed when struck by part of a straw baler flywheel while working on the Krummery farm near Alger.

A 20-foot section of pavement at Mark and Park streets "exploded" from heat as the temperature soared to 104 in Marion.

Three hundred and fifty persons attended the annual guest party of the All Arts club held at Patten Place, the home of Mrs. R. L. Watkins in Prospect. Greeting the guests were Mrs. Watkins, Mrs. Fred K. Dix, club president, Mrs. Annetta Winter, Mrs. Charles Collmer and Mrs. T. H. Finefrock.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Austin of Edgewood drive.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday, July 25, 1924.

Marion county's contribution to the Harding Memorial fund, totaling nearly $35,00 and collected under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce, was turned over to the Harding Memorial association. An unofficial check showed there were 5,453 contributions of a dollar or more each. It was estimated that in addition to these, at least 2,500 school children of the city and county contributed less than $1 each. The school children's contributions totaled approximately $500.

A graphic account of the kidnaping and murder of 13-yea-old Bobby Franks by Nathan Leopold Jr., and Richard Loeb, wealthy Chicago youths, was given at their hearing in Chicago criminal court by three Chicago newspaper reporters who had assembled the details.

A family dinner was given by Mrs. W. E. Scofield at Pleasant Inn in honor of Mrs. George B. Scofield's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright and daughters of Boston, Mass.

Mrs. F. O. Tuttle was hostess to the Woman's Home circle at her home on Carhart street.

D. R. Crissinger of Marion, member of the Federal Reserve board in Washington, was received at the palace in Havana, Cuba, by President Zayas. Mr. Crissinger described his visit as one of courtesy and characterized as "all bunk" public statements that his business in Havana was in connection with efforts to reorganize the national bank of Cuba.

Returning the Hard Way

Guam's Defenders Await Invasion.

HEAVY bombing and naval bombardment to soften the defenses of Guam, only 165 miles from the key Pacific island of Saipan, indicated the forthcoming return—the hard way—to the first piece of defended United States territory lost in the war with Japan.

When invasion forces touched shore there last week, they were back to a place where United States forces, were overwhelmed three days after Pearl Harbor.

Before the war the island had been the subject of a bitter and badly confused controversy growing out of United States naval policy in the Pacific. Lying on the direct route between Hawaii and the Philippines, 3,300 miles from the former, 1,500 miles from the latter, it was a strategically important advance base. Title belonged to the United States by virtue of its occupation in the war with Spain. It is part of the Marianas.

Under the Washington naval treaty of 1921-22, fortifications on the island were not to be increased—and this helped to persuade the Japanese to agree to a ratio of three to five in capital ships with the United States and Great Britain. Japan made a similar pledge as to its island possessions, but no doubt already had broken it on German islands being administered under mandate of the League of Nations. When the treaty expired at the end of 1936, after renewal in 1931, all chips were down, however.

The Hepburn board appointed by President Roosevelt to advise on naval needs urged in 1938 that Guam be developed as a major air and submarine base, at a cost of at least $155,000,000. When congress considered an appropriation for the purpose in 1939, Japan warned that its passage would be an unfriendly gesture, and the house of representatives defeated the appropriation, with 90 per cent of the Republicans voting against it and 70 per cent of the Democrats voting for it. In 1941, both houses of congress authorized construction of defensive works on Guam, but they were begun too late to be of any importance in the war.

It is the largest of the Mariana islands. All the other islands in the group were occupied by Japan during World war I. Guam, lies about 1,400 miles from Tokyo.

Last Resort

Too much significance should not be read into Japan's cabinet changes. Control of the country is in military hands by reason of the Japanese constitution, regardless of who becomes premier.

The army and navy have another safeguard—murder. If at any time things are not going to suit army and navy officers, they can use political assassination.

In 1936 more than a thousand officers and soldiers staged a cleanup of moderates, gained their point and made Japan safe for militarism. Among those "patriotically" murdered were: Viscount Saito and Finance Minister Takahashi; Premier Okada and Prince Saionji were ticketed for assassination, but escaped by luck.

Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan, suggests that Japanese attacks on Manchuria in 1931 and on China in 1937 may have been carried out by the army and navy without government consent.

Politics

By Truman Twill

For the next few months, the great game of politics will be played wherever two or more people are gathered together. This is not to be confused with the professional game, however. That is no game for dubs.

Their game of politics is for fun, like playing poker with the wives sitting in. They do not even call it a game, but speak of it merely as a friendly discussion, such as when someone with a cool head stands up on a chair and yells at the top of his voice, "Hay, for goshsake, pipe down before the neighbors complain. This is only a friendly discussion."

The way you start a friendly discussion is to pick out an empty place in the conversation and say in a good loud voice, "I think Fritzwiggle is a skunk and I hear he has to be fed when it is time to take a bath." If there is no empty place, one can be made with a pistol loaded with blank cartridges.

On hearing about Fritzwiggle, someone will get red in the face and retort, "Oh yeah, what about that louse Koondogle? What have you got to say for Koondogle?" You haven't anything to say for Koondoggle, but it would be improper to admit it in a friendly discussion because that would end the discussion.

So you say a lot of things about Koondoggle bringing in timely reference to the Atlantic charter, Woodrow Wilson, Harry Hopkins and the silver bloc in the western states. This confuses everybody and makes it necessary to change the subject by quoting what a radio commentator whose name can't be remembered said about something written by a columnist whose name also has been mislaid about Koondoggle's half sister by his first marriage. This leads straight to the problem of racial minorities.

Racial minorities lead to religion, which leads to Russia, which leads to Poland, and Poland leads to Germany and Hitler. Hitler leads to Mussolini, who leads to Spain, which leads to international policy, which leads to Wendell Willkie, which leads to a good deal of shouting and arm-waving. Wendell Willkie has caused more exercise in friendly discussons than anyone in politics since William Jennings Bryan.

If the friendly discussion is being held at home, Willkie is a good time for the hostess to serve the sandwiches, preferably of stale bread to keep the friendly discussers too busy to talk. After the sandwiches, if anyone brings up the question of Fritzwiggle again, it is proper to snort, "Oh you and Fritzwiggle! You will never change my mind."

Since that has been obvious from the beginning everybody then can go home and think of all the cutting remarks he could have made if he had only thought of them in time. And that is the great game of politics the way the kids play it.

U. S. Archbishop Leaves To Visit Front Lines

By The Associated Press

ROME, July 25 — Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York departed today to leave for front areas after formally denying persistent reports that his visit to the Vatican was linked with possible peace overtures on the part of Pope Pius XII.

Vatican quarters also denied that a peace proposal was the subject of the archbishop's conversations with the pontiff, or that the Pope was expected to come forward with any peace plan.

Informed of the publication of reports in the United States that he had discussed a "Papal peace plan" with the Pope Sunday, Archbishop Spellman issued a denial through a spokesman.

"His excellency authorizes me to tell you that this is false. He denies it absolutely," the spokesman stated.

Bishop Spellman has said repeatedly that the object of his trip was to visit soldiers and to inspect the work of Catholic chaplains.

The Tomb of the Unknown Soldier is in Arlington cemetery.

J. L. Sidenstricker Funeral Rites Set

Funeral services for James Lester Sidenstricker, 32, who was found dead in the home of his parents on Sunday, will be held Wednesday at 3 p. m. in the Merle B. Hughes mortuary. Mr. Sidenstricker, former resident of Marion, was found dead by his wife, Mrs. Grace Sidenstricker, when she returned to their home in Marion after visiting her mother in Marion.

He was born Aug. 14, 1912 at Marion to Charles W. and Nancy Gail Gregory Sidenstricker. His father, who lives at 186 North Grand avenue, survives with the widow and two children, Rosemary and Nancy Ann. Four brothers also survive. They are Charles W. Sidenstricker, Jr., Pfc. Arthur Sidenstricker of the U. S. Navy stationed in California.

Mr. Sidenstricker was a member of Calvary Evangelical church and Sunday school. He moved to his home in Marion until about three years ago when the family moved to Cincinnati where he was employed in a bakery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7:30 p. m. today.

"Yes, Elmer, Homogenized Milk IS Better!"

© 1944 THE BORDEN CO.

"Maybe," said Elmer grumpily. "But plain milk was always good enough for us before."
"Have you tried it?" Elsie asked.
"Give me time, Elsie, give me time—"
"There! As usual you're complaining about something you don't know anything about. You're the very one that always grumbled because all the cream was gone by the time we got to the bottom of the bottle."
"Certainly I grumbled! You know I don't like—"
"Well," Elsie interrupted, "I know you will like Borden's homogenized milk—when you try it. The last drop of this milk is just the same as the first, creamy and delicious. It's all because they break up the butterfat into such tiny particles that it can't separate and rise to the top."
"Mama," asked Beulah, "is that why they say that the cream line goes all the way down?"
"Yes, Beulah. There is cream to the very bottom."
"Well," said Elmer, still grumpy, but pouring some milk over his oatmeal, "as I said, maybe it's all right. I'm willing to try anything once."
"Mmmm!" said Beulah, who had just tried it. "It is better, Mama. Lots better. Can I have another glass?"
"Yes," answered Elsie, smiling, "but don't drink this one so fast. I want you to have lots of this milk, because Borden's have added vitamin D to every quart, and young girls need vitamin D to form strong bones and beautiful teeth."
"Hmmmph!" Elmer was eating his cereal, and now he reached for more milk. "I guess it is all right."
"I knew you'd like it," smiled Elsie. "Even if you won't admit it. And it's better for cooking, too. Now maybe you two will let me take time to eat something myself."

POLES DEMAND GERMAN LAND

Lay Claim to East Prussia, Pomerania and Other Sections.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, July 25—Demanding [illegible] post-war Poland of all of East Prussia, most of Pomerania and other portions of eastern Germany, the Soviet-sponsored national council of Poland has declared itself "the sole lawful source of authority in Poland" and termed the Polish government in London an "impostor" and "incompetent authority."

Announcement of the post-war aims of the council and the establishment of a Polish committee of national liberation as the organ of executive power was interpreted here to mean that so far as the Russian government was concerned the Polish government in exile in London no longer represents Poland.

In a manifesto released yesterday but dated at Chelm, Poland, July 22 — the day the city was liberated from the Germans by the Red army—the council said the "basic principle" of Poland's post-war foreign policy would be "a firm alliance with our direct neighbors, with the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia," and that the "blood shed in joint battles against German aggression will further consolidate our friendship and strengthen our aliance with Great Britain and the United States . . ."

Aim at Friendship

The manifesto further declared the council would strive also "to preserve traditional friendship and alliance with a revived France and to cooperate with all democratic countries of the world."

(The London Polish government, which has been recognized by the United States and Britain, declared the formation of the liberation committee was "an attempt by a handful of usurpers to impose on the Polish nation a political leadership which is at variance with the overwhelming majority."

In addition to outlining the post-war territorial demands of Poland, the manifesto proposed a broad program of social and economic reforms for the liberated populace, and called for restoration to the owners of property looted by the Germans from individuals, businesses, institutions and churches as well as state holdings. It also promised that "no single German criminal, no single traitor of the Polish people, should escape punishment."

Jews, the manifesto said, "will be insured new, normal conditions for existence, also legal and actual equality."

German property and "lands of the traitors of the people will be confiscated" under the proposed program.

Internal Reforms

Internal economic and social reforms promised by the council include the establishment of a land fund composed of certain proscribed property which will be distributed among the poor peasants, middle class peasants, small tenants with large families and also agricultural laborers. Those receiving the confiscated land will make small payments for title to the property.

In an effort to improve the economic conditions of laborers and office workers wages will be raised to a level "insuring subsistence," In addition, social insurance providing for sickness, disability, unemployment and old-age allowances will be instituted; laws protecting labor will be advocated and measures taken for improvement of housing conditions for the needy.

MRS. BOLTON IN LONDON

LONDON, July 25—Rep. Frances Bolton (R-Ohio), congressional champion of nursing legislation, reached London today eager to see at first hand the joy of army nurses at base hospitals in England and field stations in France. She undertook the trip, she said, "so I can report on their activities the way their mothers will understand."

Honor Awarded Galion Soldier Killed in Action

Pvt. John R. Eyler has been posthumously awarded a Silver Star for gallantry in action, according to a letter from the war department received by his wife, Mrs. Phyllis J. Eyler of Galion.

The citation reads: "While serving as a scout for his platoon on a reconnaissance mission, Private Eyler encountered an enemy force in dug-in positions. The enemy opened fire with small arms and automatic weapons and pinned the platoon down behind a rock wall. Private Eyler and a companion unhesitatingly jumped the rock ledge and charged the enemy positions. Although Private Eyler was wounded in the first exchange of fire, he and his companion managed to kill three and wound four of the enemy. Private Eyler was killed, but his bold action surprised the enemy and permitted his platoon to bring fire on the hostile positions. His courageous action was an inspiration to his fellow soldiers and a major factor in the successful completion of the mission." The decoration will be forwarded to the Commanding General, Fifth Service Command, Fort Hayes, Columbus, who will select an officer to make the presentation.

Before entering the service Pvt. Eyler was employed as a fireman with the Erie railroad in Marion. He is survived by his wife, and nine-months-old son, John Robert Eyler, III, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Eyler near Willard. His wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Durtschi, former residents of Marion. A detailed story appeared in The Star on Dec. 30, 1943, when the family was notified of the death of Pvt. Eyler.

implant during the recent days of bad weather.

British troops yesterday pushed into Troarn, eight miles east of Caen, but met stiff resistance and withdrew to the railway station just west of the town. Troarn is a German strongpoint blocking the highway to the big port of Le Havre.

The assault along the Falaise road was authoritatively described as a resumption of the push from Caen which started just a week ago today and bogged down after two days in the face of torrential rains, mud and the concentrated fire power Rommel had assembled.

Supreme headquarters warned against premature interpretation of the new British drive as a break-through and said it had "limited objectives."

(While the allies said the new drive was preceded by only limited aerial bombardment, the German radio broadcast that "a burning veil of destruction covers the land" and said Nazi troops underwent a terrific artillery and aerial bombardment.

The Caen-Falaise highway is a 25-foot paved road running along a ridge between the Orne and Dives rivers over rising ground and through fields somewhat larger than the ones through which the Americans have been plowing to the west.

The volume of transportation on U. S. railroads increased 132 per cent from 1939 to 1943.

Hospital Pay Raise Approved

no less than in the first six months a year ago. Officials said the average number of employes at the hospital increased from 81 in the first six months of 1943 to more than 92 in the first six months of this year, and currently stands at 106, whereas the volume of business handled by the hospital dropped from an average of 2,121 patient days per month in the first six months of 1943 to an average of 1,955 patient days in the first six months of this year.

The number of employes at the hospital has increased steadily in the first six months of this year despite the decline in the volume of patient days handled and with the increased number of workers was a corresponding increase in payroll. City records show the payroll costs at the hospital for the first six months of this year were as follows: January, $6,341.30; February, $6,917.97; March, $6,766.58; April, $6,881.27; May, $7,156.58; June, $7,808.42

Unpaid Bills High

One of the problems of the hospital has been collections, with approximately 12 per cent of the bills being delinquent here. Collections in other cities contacted varied, but the 12 per cent delinquency in Marion is considered high, and it is expected council, in its overall study of the hospital situation, will give some attention to collecting a higher percentage of accounts.

In the face of the mounting expenses and the decreased volume of business, officials last night pointed to the $5,411 deficit for the first six months of this year and foresaw a possible operating deficit of $15,000 or more by the end of this year unless drastic steps are taken to curb the trend.

Spokesman for Nurses

Representing the nurses last night as a committee were Mrs. Mabel Smith, Miss Virginia Hurley and Mrs. Rosalind Semple. Present also were Mrs. Juanita Peebles, president of District No. 7, Ohio Nurses association, Mrs. Grace Smith, a past district president, Miss Martha Haynes, Mrs. Louise Sims, Miss Marie Fulton, Miss Helen Knapp and Miss Regina Krauss. Miss Fulton represented the Bureau of Nursing service in the district and Miss Haynes and Mrs. Sims are on the district board. All took part in the discussion.

When council recessed following the lengthy discussion Mrs. Margaret Bradbury, who has been superintendent of the hospital since last Nov. 15, and who did not attend the meeting, was called, and with the mayor, council hospital committee, and Elmer Shaw, city auditor went into caucus.

In the open meeting that preceded this caucus, the hospital salary problem was presented. When Council President Pro Tem Harold Robinson asked if anyone in the audience had anything to take up with council Mrs. Rosalind Semple, spokesman for the nurses, presented the request for the increase in salary. When it was explained that this was the first time the matter had been presented to the council as a body, Harry Wilhelm, chairman of the newly appointed hospital committee, stated that the nurses' committee and council committee had held several meetings regarding the matter but that there was no money available with which to grant the request.

The nurses present, as well as the committee representing them, made it clear that they would not go on duty today, if council adjourned without giving them some assurance they could expect an adjustment in salaries.

Nurse Shortage "Critical"

Miss Marie Fulton, who is in charge of the nurses' registry, in telling of difficulties encountered in supplying nurses for the hospital described the situation as "critical." Nurses are leaving to go other places where salaries are higher she stated, and added, "I am very much afraid Marion City Hospital will be without nurses if something isn't done." At the rate of pay for nurses at the City hospital—$115 a month—when deductions are taken out nurses have about $23 a week left. The work at the hospital is harder and nurses there are working harder than they ever worked before, she stated. Seven or eight nurses have left in the last several months, two in the past two days and more will go where they will have more remunerative positions, she said. "I also know what you are up against," she added, referring to council's lack of funds.

The Marion City hospital is recognized by the state as meeting all requirements. Miss Fulton stated in response to a question regarding the institution's standing.

The discussion brought out that there are 28 nurses on the staff roster, and as a result the assistant supervisor goes into surgery, nurses on general duty are doing twice the work required ordinarily and all work where they seem to be most seriously needed at the moment. The seriousness of the situation was emphasized in statements made by the nurses that in some instances two nurses and one aide were available for 39 patients, and two nurses and one aide had the care of 16 babies and 18 mothers.

Collections Discussed

When the matter of collections entered into the discussion Mrs. Peebles raised the question of charity patients and referred to persons unable to pay for hospitalization but who were not entered as patients for whom the city would pay, and mentioned specifically a patient readmitted to the hospital recently while a bill of $1,200 still was outstanding. In reply to this Mr. Ruth explained that it was not city's policy to earmark a patient as "relief" until investigations were made as to their ability to pay. The cost of caring for these patients, Mrs. Peebles pointed out, are charged against the hospital, and do not provide any revenue for its operation.

Spokesmen for the nurses voiced the opinion that, while in no way criticising the management of the hospital, fewer inexperienced help, such as high school girls and aides, and more graduate nurses would greatly lessen the nursing staff burden and make for speedier and better service.

In pointing out their reason for asking council for a raise in salary, spokesman for the nurses pointed out that nurses do not receive any overtime pay and frequently remain on the job after their alloted eight hours are over, particularly in obstetrical cases, the increase in the cost of living, and other circumstances. They pointed out also that many nurses now on full or part time duty are women with homes who have to hire some one to come into their homes to do the household tasks and care for their family. Also it was pointed out the increase has been authorized by the Ohio State Nurses' association with the approval of the War Labor Board.

Cites Problems

There are several features in this matter which are causes of great concern, Mayor Dowler told council and the nurses in his discussion of the problem. He quoted figures on the operative cost of the institution and stated that expenses for June were in the amount of $13,804.69, this being broken down into salaries, fuel, food, laundry and other items. The total income for the year to date, figures show is $74,548.50 and expenditures something over $79,000. "I appreciate the loyalty of the employes and I appreciate the fact they do a great service to the community," the mayor stated, "but I also have an obligation to the city in seeing that the hospital is operated on a self-sustaining basis," he stated. In an effort to help solve the problem and also to gain information which might shed more light on operation of such an institution the mayor said he had written to other hospitals comparable in size to the City hospital. He had been censured, he said, for doing so, but maintained he had a duty to council to learn how other hospitals were operated, maintenance cost and financing.

Should "Stand on Own Feet

Mayor Dowler said he did not expect magic, but stated, "I do hope that the hospital can operate with the funds available; it has, in the past stood on its own feet, just as the garbage and rubbish collection department has."

"We are not taking an arbitrary stand in your request," the mayor told the nurses, "we are trying every conceivable way to meet it. Let's get together on an equitable basis." The mayor assured the nurses that "council is sure you know how to operate a hospital, we don't," and stated that three meetings were held last week with their representatives in in an effort to reach a satisfactory settlement.

"Let's avoid a situation that's embarrassing in more ways than one; the administration has not shirked its responsibility in giving it the utmost consideration; if you have no confidence in us—referring to the possibility of a walkout of the nurses—all I can say is let your conscience be your guide. If your committee will work with the superintendent and council committee, your problem can be worked out," the mayor said in conclusion.

Bucyrus Marine Tells of Horror As Japs Kill Wives, Children on Saipan Island

By 2nd Lt. JIM G. LUCAS
Marine Corps Public Relations Officer

SAIPAN, Marianas Islands—(Delayed) — Incredible cruelty of the Japs toward their own children, many of whom have been killed by the parents to avoid their capture, is sometimes too much for American Marines.

Marines headed by Corp. Clarence Gingery of Bucyrus, O., were sent into a woods today to bring out half-starved enemy civilians. They found men, women and children, led by a husky Jap who warned the Marines away by brandishing a knife.

"They started throwing stones at us before we even saw them," Gingery said. "We thought they were grenades, and opened fire until we saw they were just civilians.

"We tried to get them to come out, but the Jap in charge kept sweeping at us with a knife. We didn't want to shoot him."

Gingery sent back for a Jap woman, taken earlier, and sent her to reason with the man.

"He tried to cut her throat, so we took her back," Gingery said.

Returning a second time, the Marines found that several of the men had already hung themselves. Women and children were trying to do the same thing. One Jap was attempting to choke and beat to death a small child, which was screaming.

The man with the knife was attempting to kill several women before taking his own life.

More than 30 took their own lives, or were killed by their own people, rather than surrender to Marines who wanted only to take them back to the beach for food, water and medical attention.

HITLER

seething turmoil gripping the reich it has become clear that as long as the Nazis are directing the war—and without question they are in the driver's seat now—they are prepared to carry on even though Germany herself becomes a battle ground.

Transocean news agency in a broadcast from Berlin said there were indications that "a great number of new decrees, some of them cutting deep into our everyday life, may be expected soon."

There were indications that the gestapo's purge of army conspirators whom Hitler said had tried to assasinate him had wiped out only a few of the top men in the movement. A reliable report to The Associated Press from the reich frontier said the only member of a "high committee of opposition" who had been caught was the executed Col. Gen. Ludwig Beck, who had been warned of arrest and was taken by accident.

The crowning humiliation of the army, however, came in an order yesterday substituting the Nazi "Heil Hitler" salute for the regular military salute. This emphasized pointedly the army's subordination to the Nazi party.

German newspapers said the new salute is a "symptom of the very closeness" between the army and the party, DNB declared in a Berlin broadcast.

From the immediate military standpoint the full significance of what is happening in Germany will come with the revelation of the new front commanders. There were indications that Hitler was substituting political generals of known loyalty to him for professional staff college trained commanders.

(In a broadcast quoting Swiss dispatches, ABSIE, American transmitter in London, said Hitler would confer at Berchtesgaden today to select new generals for the Russian and Baltic fronts.)

One thing stands out in the whole picture. There has not been even a rumor of any attempt by the German civilian masses to rise against the Nazis through strikes or other demonstrations.

Senator Chavez Urges Return of Congress

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 25—The rush of war events in Europe, possibly presaging an earlier-than-expected collapse of the Nazis, brought a plea today from Senator Chavez (D-N.M.) that congress get back to work on demobilization legislation.

Chavez proposed that congress return Aug. 1 prepared to hold 60 days of full sessions before recessing for the November elections. It has been planned to postpone major legislation at least until after Labor day Sept. 4, either by an extension of the present recess ending Aug. 1, or by a series of routine sessions punctuated by three-day recesses.

Thus far congress has enacted only a blanket veterans' aid bill and legislation covering contract termination. Chavez pointed out.

GOOD MEDICAL RECORD

By The Associated Press

Among wounded treated by medical units in the combat zone, the rate was less than three per cent for the period from D-day, June 6, to June 30, he said.

New Allied Drive May Bring End To Nazi Stand

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Hopes [illegible] the renewal of the allied offensive in Normandy this morning is the big answer.

This is the crucial moment when a concerted allied onslaught must tear through Hitler's fortified Westerner defenses. In fact there would seem to be the acid test to tell us whether we may expect a quick end to the European war.

On that basis one would expect the western allies to extend their drive in Normandy to the utmost at the earliest possible moment in conjunction with the terrific assault by the Red armies. They are going all-out for the knockout. United Nations forces already are surging northward in great strength against the powerful Nazi Gothic line which defends the upper heel of Italy. The allied fourth front—the air—continues to tear at the vitals of Germany.

Ring of Death

A mighty allied drive in Normandy would complete the ring of death about Hitler. Today's offensives might be the beginning, but we can't gauge the operations yet because the British and Canadians on the left flank, and the Americans on the right flank, slipped into gear so quietly in the dawn that it isn't apparent whether the war machine is to be thrown into top.

The Germans have said a big offensive was boiling up in Normandy. Many Russians have taken British Prime Minister Churchill's visit to that front as presaging a fresh effort. Perhaps that's wishful thinking about Churchill's mission, but there certainly have been mounting signs that the allied volcano on the peninsula is about ready to erupt. It's no secret that huge quantities of materiel and great numbers of troops have been pouring into France.

It presumably is this picture which encourages the Russians to expect a mighty effort in Normandy. They believe that Hitler's eastern and western fronts will blow up if simultaneous pressure is put on them in a big way. Judging from his disaster in the Russo-German theater, this might happen.

No Collapse Yet

Having said this, however, we must qualify it by recognizing that the Hitlerites have been offering tough resistance in Normandy and that while they are in dire straits in the eastern theater, there has been no complete collapse of their fighting machine. Their position in the east is so precarious that the collapse might come—but it hasn't arrived yet.

The Germans are retreating pell-mell before the Red armies at most points in an effort to reach a new defensive line on which they can hold the enemy advance. The next logical line appears to be that along the great Wisla (Vistula) river which flows through Warsaw. However, they will be lucky if they can make a stand there, for they are said to lack the necessary armored divisions.

There are lines of defense between the Wisla and the German frontier, and the Nazis may hope that the Red offensive will slow down so they can halt on one of these. The Russians are going so fast that their greatly extended communications might become a problem before long.

JAP FLEET NOT YET READY TO FIGHT

By The Associated Press

Several United States [illegible] forces "with powerful groups [illegible] aircraft carriers as the main [illegible] are maneuvering in the waters [illegible] the Marianas, some 1,500 miles from Tokyo, and the "time is not yet ripe for our fleet to come [illegible] and attack the enemy," the Tokyo radio asserted today.

The broadcast by Domei, official Japanese, news agency, quoted the naval commentator Masanori Ito as saying:

"Strategically speaking, the time to deliver the coup de grace to the enemy has not yet arrived.

Later, he asserted:

"Undoubtedly, our combined fleet is far inferior to the enemy's as far as aircraft strength is concerned. The fleet which loses command of the air is destined for defeat and immediate rout from the scene of battle."

Ito said the factors for "complete victory in a naval battle" were superior fleet strength, supplemental power needed to follow up the battle, and geographic considerations, as well as fighting technique and morale.

"Our combined fleet," Ito asserted in the Tokyo broadcast, "acting on the basis of cool reasoning and certainty, will not come out until an exhaustive study of the above factors has been completed."

The broadcast seemed to suggest that the fleet might remain in refuge of home waters near the protection of land batteries and land based planes until, perhaps, the American fleet struck directly at Japan.

TWO SOUTHERN STATES VOTING

"Cotton Ed" Smith and Mrs. Caraway Run Into Opposition.

By The Associated Press

Two southern Democratic primaries lead today's political parade.

In South Carolina, the vehemently anti-New Deal Sen. E. B. "Cotton Ed" Smith is running for renomination against Gov. Olin D. Johnston, who says the war requires backing the Roosevelt administration, and these other candidates: Attorney General John M. Daniel, Augustus S. Merrimon of Sumter and Dr. Carl B. Epps, Sumter surgeon.

In Arkansas, the senate's only woman member, Hattie Caraway, runs into opposition on her renomination try from Rep. J. W. Fulbright, author of the "lasting Peace" resolution in the U. S. house; Gov. Homer Adkins; Oil Man T. H. Barton of El Dorado, and J. Rosser Venable of Little Rock.

Negro sources reported qualified Negroes are prepared to vote in all Arkansas counties. But Secretary Harvey G. Combs of the Democratic state committee said he doubted that many could qualify under a new rule requiring a showing of party loyalty. Negroes voted in Texas' Democratic primary Saturday.

Other political news, in brief:

Aides of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said at Albany, N. Y., that the Republican nominee will give special attention to farm and other problems of the midwest in connection with the meeting of Republican governors at St. Louis Aug. 2-3. He plans to talk over these and other matters with his running mate, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, at Albany tomorrow.

Herbert Brownell Jr., Republican national chairman, told a news conference at Washington that he has found "more enthusiasm, cooperation and spirit of victory in the party than there has been in a generation." He contrasted this with what he called "dissension, backbiting and confusion" among Democrats.

Brownell, mentioning no names, said that in control of the Democrats are "the bosses of the corrupt big city machines and the radical left wingers who are closer to communism than to any other political philosophy."

Sen. Harry S. Truman, the Democrats' choice for vice president in place of Henry Wallace, said at Kansas City he would return to Washington after Aug. 1, "ready to campaign whenever and wherever the President wants me to."

DIES OF BURNS

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., July 25—Michael Delematto 60, died yesterday of burns after a steam pipe burst at a war plant where he was employed.

NEW PLAN MAPPED TO AID OHIO BLIND

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 25 — Ohio's blind may receive almost unlimited medical treatment and up to four years of college under a new program designed to fit the state's 12,000 sightless for employment, the state blind commission announced today.

Judge H. J. Robison, head of the division of social administration which supervises the commission, said the program would "be in full effect by Sept. 1."

He added that through it the commission hoped to increase the number of sightless employed in Ohio industry to 2,000 within one year. Records show 700 blind employes at present, he said.

Robison said "heretofore, we have aided them in preparing for and finding jobs on a small scale.

"But for the first time we will attempt to bring about their physical restoration also on the theory that a well man wants to work and help himself."

It is important to foster this attitude in the blind, Robison continued, "and almost impossible if they are not physically fit." He added that the program would double the commission's previous training and job placement services and estimated its operation would cost $50,000 for the next six months.

Robison explained that any totally blind person, regardless of financial status, was eligible.

JOHN G. FAHEY GETS ENSIGN COMMISSION

Receives Navy Wings in Graduation Exercises.

John Gordon Fahey, 22, of Marion, received his Navy wings and commission as an ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve in recent graduation services at Corpus Christi, Tex., according to word received by his brother, Tim R. Fahey of South Main street.

He will go from Corpus Christi to New Orleans and from there to Lake City, Fla., for operational training in preparation for assignment to duty. His training has included flying in several types of planes, including land-based bombers.

He is a graduate of St. Mary Parochial High school, class of 1940, attended John Carroll university at Cleveland for two and one-half years, taking a pre-medical course, went to Miami university at Oxford, O, where he won his civilian pilot's wings in February of 1943. He later took training at a naval preflight school at Iowa City, Ia., and Glenview Field, Ill., before going to Rodd Field at Corpus Christi late last year.

Ensign Fahey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Fahey of Cleveland.

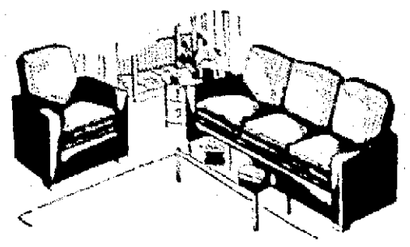
Dependable Furniture for 78 Years



Ever Think Of This, This Way?

A great many people go through the best part of their lives WISHING for nice furniture — often it is badly needed furniture.

There is no need for this — at least in most cases. Here are some reasons.

Furniture can be bought and paid for as you buy and pay for a lot or a house — a small payment at the time you buy and the balance paid for as you can spare the money — each week, every second week, or one payment a month — as best suits your convenience.

Then, also, you can trade in the furniture you no longer care for, as part payment on the new things you have either been wishing for, or actually need.

When by the store drop in and let us talk this over. There will be NO obligation, or urging to buy.

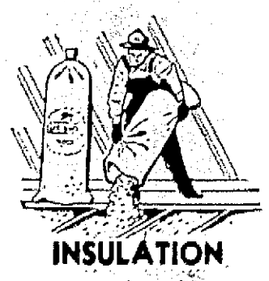
INSULATE NOW TO CONSERVE FUEL NEXT WINTER

TAKE ADVANTAGE OF SUMMER TO MAKE YOUR HOME HEAT-TIGHT



INSULATION

STORM WINDOWS

WEATHERSTRIP

Uncle Sam warns coal, oil and gas shortages will continue into next winter, with critical war industries still needing huge amounts of fuel to maintain their production. You can help conserve fuel by winterizing your home now through proper insulation. This is a thrifty step, too, because so much heat leaks through the roof, walls, windows and doors of your home. Experience has shown that insulation to reduce these losses soon pays for itself in savings.

INSULATE ON EASY TERMS

To encourage the saving of fuel, our government continues to permit long payment terms on home insulation. Buy on budget terms — up to 3 years — no down payment until November 1st. Your contractor can render better service if you order this work done now before cool weather comes.

Marion Cubs Square Series with Middletown with 10 to 8 Victory

Locals Are Outhit 17-11 but Sox Errors Prove Costly.

Special to The Star

MIDDLETOWN, O., July 24—Marion Cubs squared the series with the Middletown Red Sox here last night by handing the Sox a 10 to 8 reversal in a wild and woolly game. The potent bat of Granzig drove in four runs for the Cubs and he collected a triple. Baine Smith went the route and allowed 11 hits. His control was faultless but his mates contributed six errors.

Stan Ostrowski started for the Cubs and he was aided in favor of Pace in the third. The two pitchers yielded 17 hits and Ostrowski walked 4 and Pace hit a man, but the Sox could never take the lead after the Cubs scored three in the third.

GROMEK TO START FOR TRIBE TONIGHT

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 25—Steve Gromek, rookie hurler who pitched brilliantly in his last two starts for the Cleveland Indians, faces the New York Yankees tonight in the first game of a crucial four-game series.

The youngster's most recent victories, a 3 to 2 decision in 14 innings over the pace-setting St. Louis Browns and a 2 to 1 win over the Philadelphia Athletics, make him a good bet to continue the Tribe's recent streak of seven victories in eight games.

To make certain the Washington Nationals knew they were beaten yesterday, Ed Klieman held them to four hits while his teammates collected 15 safeties to win 10 to 1.

The Tribe hit safely in every inning. Mickey Rocco led the parade with a triple and two doubles, driving in five runs. Every Indian garnered at least one hit off Early Wynn, who went the route for the hapless Nats.

The victory kept the Tribe in fourth place, one-half game behind the Boston Red Sox, one and one-half games behind the second-place New York Yankees, and four and one-half games behind the league-leading Browns.

Louisville Make Bid for Second Spot in AA

By The Associated Press

Louisville's Colonels, riding a six-game winning streak, have a chance tonight to take over second place in the American Association pennant race.

Somewhat lost in the first division shuffle most of the season, the Colonels now stand only a half-game behind second-place Columbus whom they trimmed 9-6 last night.

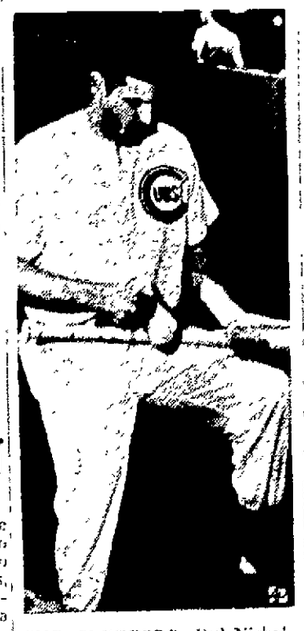
The pace-setting Milwaukee Brewers also lost last night, bowing to St. Paul 4-3, but maintained their 10-game margin over Columbus. Fourth-place Toledo kept a half-game behind Louisville with a 10-inning 5-4 triumph over Indianapolis, while Minneapolis trimmed Kansas City 5-1.

Cincinnati Opens Four Game Series in Boston

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, July 25—The Cincinnati Reds play the first of four games in three days with the Boston Braves today with Lefty Arnold Carter, who was scheduled to start in last night's postponed game with Philadelphia, on the mound.

The Phillies and the Reds already had taken the field when a 20-minute downpour stopped proceedings. The game will be played off Sept. 22.



"MR. SLUGGER." Bill Nicholson (above), Chicago Cub outfielder, may become the first National league player in history to lead the circuit in home runs and runs-batted-in for two successive years. He hit four home runs and drove in seven runs in the last New York Giants-Cubs double header to give him a total of 21 home runs and 64 runs-batted-in. (AP Wirephoto)

BEN WHITE PREPS FOR HAMBLETONIAN

OLD ORCHARD, Me., July 25—Ben F. White, 71-year-old Lexington, Ky., harness horse trainer-driver, who finished second in the 1941 Hambletonian with His Excellency and who took down first money in the classic in 1942 with His Ambassador and again triumphed with Volo Song in 1943, can't be counted out of this year's $40,000 race at Goshen, N. Y., on Aug. 9.

The grey-thatched veteran, who is rated one of the best trainers of colts in the land, has been bringing along slowly Rose Dean, three-year-old miss which is bred for speed and endurance for her sire is Dean Hanover 1:58½ and her dam is Rosalind 1:56¾, and winner of the Hambletonian back in 1936 in 2.04¾.

Ben is a man of few words and seldom does he pop off about his charges but it is known that he thinks pretty well of Rose Dean's chances in the Hambletonian after she stepped three heats here this week without a rifle. She only won one heat, the third in 2:06½, for three-year-old filly and gelding trotters, but it was the manner in which she showed her heels to the rest of the field that caused Ben to smile and figure that he may do something that no other driver has ever done and that is to win three Hambletonians in a row.

Quite true, Ben has a great filly to beat in Yankee Maid, the daughter of Volomite-Elizabeth which many rate as a standout in the classic. And then there's Ruth's Day, Enac, Eva's Boy, Fighting Scot, Rapid Hanover, Lydiamite and perhaps some others that deserve consideration.

But, Ben is satisfied with the way that Rose Dean is training and the race which she has under her belt this week will do her the world of good for the big money event at Goshen less than a month away.

Snatches of Sports

NEW YORK, July 25—A "tale of two cities" is the baseball's current talking-point.

Milwaukee's brewers, getting set for tomorrow's American Association all-star game, erected 2,000 outfield seats to take care of the "sell-for-charity" crowd which will see the loop-leaders meet the pick of the other seven clubs.

To add the buildup, V. P. Mike Heath asked the other executives to mail pictures of their players for the all-star squad.

The laugh!

Oh! St. Paul sent in two photos—and Arth them a bill for $2.

Lem Franklin Badly Hurt in Newark, N. J.

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, N. J., July 25—Lem Franklin, 208-pound Negro heavyweight from Chicago, was reported in critical condition today at City hospital after being knocked out by Larry Lane, Trenton Negro, in the ninth round of a scheduled 10-round fight here last night at Meadowbrook bowl.

Dr. Herbert Conner said after examining X-rays that Franklin had a serious brain concussion and partial paralysis of the right arm and right leg. The paralysis was caused by the fighter's fall and not by punches, the doctor stated.

Golf Rivalry Grows Intense

CHICAGO, July 25—The most intense competitive rivalry in golf is found in the stroke-by-stroke record this season of Harold "Jug" McSpaden and Byron Nelson. Their remarkable scoring has given them the strongest monopoly on titles in the game's modern history.

In 52 rounds of tournament play, only five strokes separate the two pros—Nelson with a total of 3,613 and McSpaden with 3,618.

Nelson has clipped 94 strokes off par to average 69.50 per round; McSpaden has beaten par by 89 strokes for a 69.57 average. Out of their reach, however, is the coveted Harry Vardon Memorial trophy for low scoring, which has been retired for the duration.

Nelson's poorest 72-hole aggregate was a five-over-par 289 for sixth place in the Philadelphia Inquirer invitational last month. Jug's worst showing was 288 for fifth place in the same meet. McSpaden was 17 under par with a record-breaking 271 to win the Utah Open Sunday—his best record of the season. Nelson was second with a 15-under-par 273—also his best this year.

Nelson made up most of the strokes on his Philadelphia rival when he won the New York Red Cross tournament last month with a 13-under-par 275 while McSpaden finished sixth with 286.

But which of the two rightly deserves to be known as the No. 1 golfer of the year? They still have four major tournament to go on the summer circuit—richest in golf history—the National P. G. A., the Tam O'Shanter and the Nashville, Tenn., and Dallas, Tex., opens.

On the basis of number of titles won and amount of war-bond earnings, McSpaden has an edge over his Toledo opponent. Jug has finished first five times, second four times and third twice. Nelson has won three titles, placed second six times and third twice. The former has accumulated $19,650 in war bonds, maturity value—an amount which surpasses the all-time money winning record of $19,534 by Sam Snead in 1938. Nelson has bagged $16,841 in bonds.

JIMMY DYKES ENDS RUMORS OF OUSTER

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 25—Baseball's rumor-peddlers scurried for cover today as James J. (Jimmie) Dykes waved the ink dry on a new contract extending his managership of the Chicago White Sox through 1945 and 1946.

The two-year renewal of Dykes' present three-year agreement which ends this season was announced last night by Mrs. Grace Comiskey, club president, to newspapermen in Jim's presence. Dykes had signed the new contract an hour before a nocturnal game between the Sox and New York Yankees.

The action nipped a swelling flow of rumors that the colorful, 47-year-old Dykes was about to part ways with the club he had managed since May 9, 1934—an 11-season span that is far and away the longevity record for a Pale Hose pilot.

Grapevine rumors had Jim eyeing three National league clubs—Brooklyn, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. The most persistent rumor was that Dykes, a native of Philadelphia and once an infield fixture on Connie Mack's Athletics, would go to the Phillies, now freshened by Du Pont cash.

Mrs. Comiskey was mum on terms but smilingly told sports writers Dykes "did not take a cut" in his new agreement which means he'll be getting around $27,500 a year, reportedly his present salary.

St. Louis Ready To Begin Plans for Home Town World Series

By The Associated Press

St. Louis was in good shape today to start planning for that all-Sportsman's Park World Series.

The Cardinals were 13½ games out in front of the National league standing at a pace that should clinch the flag by Labor day. If the Red Birds don't falter they will win 110 games and crowd the all-time record set by Frank Chance's Chicago Cubs who won 116 in 1906. The best since then was the 110 taken by the Yankees in 1927.

Luke Sewell's Brownies broke even in two important four-game series with Boston and New York and now entertain seventh and eighth place Washington and Philadelphia while the Yanks and Red Sox tangle with the surging Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers.

The Tribe steamrollered Washington, 10-1 yesterday as Ed Klieman stopped the Nats with four hits for his eighth victory.

Denny Galehouse took Nels Potter's turn for St. Louis and whipped Boston, 6-5, although relief help from George Caster was needed when the Sox spurred for four in the eighth. Potter, suspended for 15 days after the "spit ball" incident, will not be available until July 31.

Ernie "Jumbo" Bonham scattered 10 Chicago hits while Johnny Lindell set the slugging pace with four hits in an 11-5 Yankee triumph over Bucky Harris' Boston Red Sox.

Dizzy Trout whitewashed Philadelphia, 1-0, for his 14th victory to move Detroit back into the first circle at Bobo Newsom's expense. Rudy York's double scored Pinky Higgins and Cramer to break the ice in the fourth.

Teddy Wilks, husky Canadian rookie, continued his sensational success story by whipping Brooklyn Jim Tobin, 7-1, with the help of three successive singles by Marion Marion.

Brooklyn had its biggest inning of the year, scoring nine times in the lucky seventh, including a three-run homer by Dixie Walker to rout Rip Sewell and defeat Pittsburgh, 12-7. Charley Fuchs, recently acquired from the Braves, was credited with his first victory before 9,072, Brooklyn's smallest night crowd.

The New York Giants exploded on Claude Passeau for four runs in the eighth to pull out a 5-4 nod over Chicago with Phil Weintraub's double providing the tying and winning run for relief Rube Fischer.

Cincinnati - Philadelphia was rained out.

Comedy Added to Bill for Comiskey Park Event

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 25—A series of field events, with a comedy act added, will feature the preliminaries for tomorrow night's war fund game between the Chicago White Sox and Washington Senators. Net proceeds of the contest, the third annual war relief baseball show at Comiskey Park, will go to the national war fund and the Red Cross.

Three players from each team will engage in a 75-yard dash event, with Washington's trio headed by George Case, American league champion base stealer. Other Senators are Johnny Sullivan and George Myatt, and the Sox entries are Thurman Tucker, Joe Haynes and Ed Carnett. Catchers will compete in an accuracy throwing contest and another event scheduled is a relay throwing contest, with each club entering four players.

Coach Nick Altrock of the Senators and the Cox's coaches, Mule Haas and Bing Miller, are to vie for honors in a wheel-barrow race from second base to home plate. They will be blindfolded and spun around before heading for home.

DR. BEHAN SPEAKS IN UNION SERVICE

Causes of World's Troubles Provide Sermon Topic.

Dr. Warren P. Behan, interim pastor of Trinity Baptist church, delivered the sermon in the third union church service held at First United Brethren church Sunday night. His theme was "What's the Matter with the World?" and the text taken from Genesis 21:17, was "What aileth thee?"

Dr. Behan told of the "epidemic of hate, cruelty, lust and murder that has broken out again all over the world even with greater destruction that 25 years ago. We know that the world is desperately and fatally ill.

"Doctors have diagnosed the case but do not agree on the causes. The cause has been assigned to capitalism or economic determination, political dictatorship, British imperialism, the set determination of the white race to control the Asiatics, the callousness of international bankers, and the unscrupulousness of international munitions makers. Still others assert that the difficulty lies inherently in the human nature that always has warred and always will and there is nothing we can do about it." Dr. Behan asserted that "one or all of these together reveal the true cause."

"It was left to a man who lived 700 years before Christ to bring us the real cause of the situation in his day which is so like ours. Isaiah told his people that they had turned their backs on God and had forsaken Him and therein lay their trouble." The cause of the trouble is to be found in the one word, 'sin,' as demonstrated in militarism, totalitarianism and other social and economic evils. International conferences have failed to save the situation. "The only thing that counts is turning back to God."

Rev. W. W. Freshly, assistant pastor of Calvary Evangelical church, read the scripture and Rev. H. C. Ahrens, pastor of Salem Evangelical and Reformed church offered the prayer. The choir of the host church presented a special number.

The union youth service preceding the church service was in charge of the Central Christian youth group led by Pearl Haywood. A panel discussion was held on "Victorious Churches," a topic under the general theme for the year, "Victor for Christ." Special music was presented by a quartet of young people from Central Christian church.

Bucyrus Fighter Plane Repair Chief Honored

The award of the Bronze Star for meritorious achievement as crew maintenance chief of fighter aircraft in connection with aerial operations against the enemy in the European Theater of Operations has been made to Staff Sergeant Robert A. Mollenkopf of 507 West Mary street, Bucyrus, according to word from his headquarters. The 27-year-old crew chief, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Mollenkopf, was a truck driver and bread salesman in Cleveland before entering the armed forces two years ago. He attended air mechanics school at Lincoln, Nebr., and also spent a month at the Packard Motor Co. plant in Detroit, Mich., learning all about the 1,650 h. p. American built Merlin-Rolls Royce engines powering the P51 Mustang airplanes he works on at his English base.

Report Hardin Co. Man Is Killed in Action

Special to The Star

KENTON, July 25—Staff Sgt. Harold Swysgood, 22, a native of Ridgeway and graduate of Mt. Victory High school, today was reported by the war department as having been killed in action in Italy on Feb. 15, 1944. Previously he was listed as "missing in action," and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Swysgood of Dayton, had hoped he was a prisoner of war.

Sgt. Swysgood was in a medical detachment while in training at Columbus but was transferred to the judge advocate general's office upon arrival in Italy. His parents and a sister survive, as do several aunts and uncles in this locality.

500,000 JEWS GAIN HOPE IN HUNGARY

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 25—The fate of some 500,000 Jews left in Hungary rested today on decisive action by the regent, Adm. Nicholas Horthy. The Vatican and the International Red Cross are understood to have interceded in an effort to halt handing them over to the Germans, and Horthy was reported last week in Bern to have promised to stop forcible evacuation of the Jews.

It was estimated here that 400,000 Jews in Hungary have been turned over to the Germans and that one-fourth of these already have been killed. The 100,000 Jews already killed were said to have been those who had fled into Hungary ahead of the Nazis from neighboring countries. Others rounded up were from the former Czech and sub-Carpathian areas and residents of north Hungary.

There was evidence that Budapest Christian churches have been sheltering many Jews by mass baptisms. An official Gazette decreed that Jews who were members of Christian churches belong to an "association of Hungarian Christian Jews."

A gleam of hope came after the report of Vatican mediation. There has been no official announcement of the Pope's intercession but Jewish sources widely credited the pontiff with diplomatic negotiation.

Horthy's reported promise to halt the surrender of Jews to the Germans and to evacuate children and visa-holding Jews to Palestine or neutral countries was considered the first step in efforts to save the Jews from slaughter.

Hardin Co. Man's Deed in Bougainville Revealed

Special to The Star

KENTON, July 25—Pfc. Jesse T. Horner, whose home address is Kenton R.R. 6, may never walk again, it was revealed today as the war department told the story of his heroic action at Bougainville on the night of March 16-17. A Jap grenade fell in the pillbox where he and his comrades were fighting. "Pfc. Horner unhesitatingly threw himself on the grenade and absorbed the explosion with his body. The explosion seriously wounded him in the legs and feet."

New Labor Dispute Hits Wright Plant

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, July 25—A new labor dispute broke out today at the Lockland plant of the Wright Aeronautical Corp., and officials of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) asserted they had been "locked out of the plant."

An independent source estimated that 750 to 1,000 workers were idle in the foundries, but a company statement said production "continued as usual."

Both sides attributed the incident to suspension of a union committeeman, Gilbert Thomas, last night. The company accused him of using "abusive and obscene language to a supervisor in the presence of a woman employe."

MAYOR VETOES ALLEY COSTS

Windsor Street Work Not on City-Owned Property, Council Told.

City council last night, in addition to dealing with the City hospital salary problem, reported elsewhere in tonight's Star, heard a letter read from Mayor Dowler in which he vetoed payment of repairs on an alley at the W. D. Martin home on Windsor street. Mayor Dowler stated, in the letter that he had been advised that the alley had never been dedicated to the city nor accepted by the city as a public alley, and that the city, therefore, "does not have any responsibility for constructing it and much less, a legal right to pay for it." Action on the letter was carried over to the next regular meeting.

The following legislation was approved: installation of a six-inch water main from Nye street to Clinton avenue on Bennett street; installation of a six-inch water main in North Grand avenue from Farming street to Kentucky avenue and in Kentucky avenue from North Grand avenue to Jefferson street; authorization of the Marion Water Co. to install a six-inch cast iron water main in the second alley south of Blake avenue locating water hydrant on Bartram avenue at an alley intersection; installation a water main on Scioto street to York street; installation of a water main on Waterloo street; extension of a pipe line system on Uncapher avenue south a distance of approximately 180 feet; water main and taps on Patterson street north from Mark street; water main on Leader street north from intersection of Silver street.

Approved also was the bid of the National City Bank of $35,017.50 for bonds to bear interest at the rate of one cent per year, and a resolution authorizing the appointment of the hospital committee composed of Harry Wilhelm, chairman, Philip Rea and William Simmons, the appointment to be in effect until Dec. 31, 1945. An ordinance providing for the installation of a two-inch water main from 361 Fahey street to Silk street, was amended to include the installation of a fire hydrant at the end of the present six-inch water main. The water hardness report for the period ending July 21 was 7.9 high and 7.3 low.

New Group Safeguards Sleep for War Workers

By International News Service

CHICAGO — "Shhhhhhhhhhh" is the slogan of the Chicago Noise Abatement commission, and its newest campaign has resulted in establishment of the Quiet Please Rangers.

Members promise to keep needless noise at a minimum to help neighbors working on war plant swing shifts, to sleep.

Working with the commission is the Office of Defense Transportation, both groups determined to prevent the increased noises of summer—created by vacationing children, radios blaring through open windows and neighborhood gatherings.

DRIVER DENIES CHARGE

Maurice C. Clements, 50, of La Rue pleaded not guilty in municipal court today when arraigned on a reckless driving charge and a hearing was set for later. He was arrested by city police yesterday following a collision on East Center street at 5 p. m. involving his car and another driven by Gaylord Burton Clifford of 345 South Main street. Police reported the mishap occurred as Clements pulled away from the curb at 178 East Center. Both cars were damaged.

LEGAL NOTICE

In the matter of the Leathem Joint County Ditch No. 3/8 petitioned for by Salo Leathem, et al.

To each person signing or named in the petition and to each other person affected by said improvement.

You and each of you are hereby notified that on the 19th day of June 1944, the above named petitioner filed a petition with the Auditor of Marion County, Ohio, for the improvement of the Leathem Joint County Ditch by repair of tile at the upper end and open ditch from County line down stream on the course hereinafter set forth. The construction of the improvement is necessary and will be conducive to the public welfare.

An application to amend petition was filed at the first hearing in the Commissioners office of Marion County, Ohio, on the 24th day of July, 1944, by Salo Leathem which reads as follows:

Commencing on the land of Salo Leathem in Section 25, Township 1, Range 17 E., Tully Township, Marion County, Ohio. Thence in a southerly direction following the general course of said ditch crossing the lands of Salo Leathem, a public road, Dean Bebout, County Line road, Thelma Whaley, Velma M. Daley, et al, Emery Seckle, T. & O. C. R. R., Elza Cez, Sarah J. Brooks and V. L. Brooks or far enough for a good and sufficient outlet.

It is claimed that the improvement will affect property owned by you. You are therefore notified that the Joint Board of County Commissioners of Marion and Morrow County have fixed the 21st day of August 1944, at 10 o'clock A. M., (C.W.T.) 11 o'clock A. M., (E.W.T.) for viewing the proposed improvement as amended and have fixed the 28th day of August, 1944, at 10 o'clock A. M. (C.W.T.) 11 o'clock A. M., (E.W.T.) in the office of the County Commissioners in Marion, Ohio, as the time and place for the hearing in the matter of said improvement as amended.

Joint Board of Commissioners of Marion and Morrow Counties.
By W. S. Guthrie,
Clerk of Joint Board.

GRAIN TRADE TURNS TO BUYING SIDE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 25 — Traders turned to the buying side today and all grain futures rallied strongly. Wheat gains reached a cent at times, and rye as much as two cents.

Activity generally was light because of conflicting market influences. The possibility of an early ending of the war in Europe discouraged market support, but on the other side were such factors as government support by purchases of cash wheat in the southwest, a higher-than-expected ceiling of 82 cents for oats futures, and large mill buying.

Wheat for delivery next July was offered for $1.56 a bushel.

STOCKS REGAIN PART OF LOSS

But Comeback Effort Lacks Heavy Punch; Dealings Slowest in Weeks.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 25—Stock Market leaders today retrieved fractions of a point or more of their recent losses although comeback animation generally was lacking.

Some customers who had sold out replaced commitments on a modest basis. Improved tendencies appeared at the start but dealings were the slowest in weeks.

Prominent on the upside were Bethlehem, Chrysler, Goodrich U. S. Rubber, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircraft and Du Pont.

Industrial Plant, Store, Burglarized

Two burglaries were reported to city police today. Rex Robinson reported the Marion Glass Manufacturing plant on Leader street was broken into some time last night. Police investigated but were unable to determine how entrance was effected. Attempts to force the two safes in the building were unsuccessful. A fountain pen belonging to one of the employes was the only thing reported taken. Police believed the burglar ransacked files in a search for money.

The second forced entry was at a grocery store at 375 South Vine street operated by Clarence Bailey. Police found entry there had been effected by knocking out a panel in a rear door. An undetermined number of cigarets and some cheese were taken from the store and a few pennies were stolen from the cash register.

RUSSIA

man-Polish border five days ago they have liberated over 9,000 square miles in their mighty drive toward the west.

The fall of Lublin, 91 miles southeast of Warsaw, after a little more than 24 hours of street fighting was celebrated in Moscow by the firing of 20 salvos from 224 guns followed by the play of the Soviet and Polish national anthems.

Lublin was the scene of some of the most shocking incidents of the Germans' anti-Semetic terror programs and formerly had a population of 115,000 of which 30 per cent were Jews.

Thundering west on the shortest road to Warsaw, columns of Soviet armor and mounted troops passed through Lukow in hot pursuit of shattered German rearguards, leaving behind them 500 populated places which they had freed from the Nazis.

After capturing Lublin Marshal Rokossovsky's forces seized Belzhitse, 13 miles southeast, to put Soviet troops less than 20 miles from the Wisla (Vistula) river—the last axis natural defense line before Germany itself.

The seizure of Lukow represented a 40-mile gain in 24 hours by the Russians and by its capture the Red army cut off the German fortress bastion of Brest-Litovsk far to the east, where street fighting was reported.

In the south the capture of Lwow appeared imminent as Russian troops swept around to its west side and took Jaworow, 20 miles to the west-northwest; Sadowa-Wisznia, 30 miles west and Moscyshka, 40 miles to the west.

Red army troops southwest of Lwow crossed the Dnestr river and captured Halicz, 14 miles north of Stanislawow, gateway to the carpathian mountain passes.

The destiny of Warsaw overshadowed all the other immediate developments in the Russian's tremendous offensive, but the Red army reported that in the Baltic-Lithuania area Soviet troops had captured Vabalninkas, 70 miles southeast of Riga, while northeast of Lake Peipus a Red column had entered Sosnitsi, 42 miles southeast of Narva.

Northwest of Bialystok the Russians have captured Korycin, a railroad town 38 miles from East Prussia. By-passed Bialystok itself was in a precarious position, with Russian troops attacking it frontally.

Total motor vehicle registrations exceeded 30,000,000 for the first time in 1938.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I LOOKED at the tall lantern in the Chinese manner in January. I am exceedingly fond of Chinese food, Father," I declared. "Then at least Gus's widely extolling fare. I must admit a shiver of the blade and now with relief that rows plates stood in front of the lantern, and that three equal heaps were already on the table as well as some small dishes next to a bowl of the preserved kumquats which promise to satisfactorily finish a Chinese meal.

Service for Three

"Where now?" my father demanded. "Service for three? I cannot refer this. "But—oh impudent fellow—I am sure my friend and I will do justice to it nevertheless. Very good work, Gus, and quick, also. Is the food for the boys ready?"

"Yes, sir. I brought them what I fetched this. It's all ready to serve."

"Then you may give it to them right away," my father said. "We'll serve ourselves, and you do not need to come for the dishes. Tell the boys that Mrs. Graham said to go to sleep as soon as they finish eating, and that she will call them in about two hours. Do not come back here until I call you."

"Okay, sir. Gus said, with the judicious mixture of slang and respectful formality which is always his. Then he was gone, and my father put me into a chair at the table, while he and Jack brought other chairs up to join me.

Conversant with Situation

"This time I shall be adamant," my father said. "Thanks to your efficient way of telling a story, Margaret, we are fully conversant with the situation up to the message from Hugh which you committed to memory. We will not attempt to deal with that until we have finished this impromptu but I am sure, very palatable meal."

"I shall be very glad to obey you, Father," I said, smiling. "The very odor of this is tantalizing.

"You won't hear any objections from me," Jack commented. "I always begin to get hungry when I even think about Chinese food. Let alone see it and taste it. Besides, I haven't my lady-cousin's marvelous memory you know. When she begins spouting those figures and letters, I shall be bending over a pad and paper with a freshly sharpened pencil, begging her to go slowly. Then, when I've finished transcribing, I shall have to ask her to go over the whole mess carefully, in order to be sure that there is no error. Only then can I feel safe in going to work on the stuff."

"And I," said my father, "will get out the code which Hugh and I always have used together, and with that at hand I shall write down carefully every syllable which I know applies to me outside the formulae. And I also shall ask you, Margaret, to go over the words I have written when you have completed your recitation."

"Do you mind," I asked diffidently, "if you do not ask me to look over your written words? I will recite what I have memorized as many times as you wish, while you check for errors, but I am afraid my memory might play tricks on me if I read your written transcriptions and at the same time mentally recited my own lesson."

"Of course we do not mind," my father said, and Jack added: "I see your point." Then my father struck his doubled fist lightly but firmly against the table.

"Now, that's settled," he said, "and not another word except about the weather or similarly innocuous subjects until we've finished this meal."

Dictum Obeyed

I was glad, as I think Jack was, too, to obey his dictum, and for the next half hour we kept carefully away from anything more serious than Faith's antics and Katie's vagaries, anecdotes which, I was glad to see, gave them hearty laughs.

They ceased laughter quickly, I decided, those two men with so much responsibility resting on their shoulders. My father's portion I knew well, although he never spoke to me of it unless circumstances were arranging me to work with him on some special case, but I had only the vaguest idea of what Jack was doing. I knew that he had completed the experiment on which he had worked so long, and which had so nearly been stolen from him by the kidnapers of Marion, and I knew that he had been highly praised by the branch of the service which his work had benefited.

"Hush-Hush" Stuff

But it all had been such "hush hush" stuff, and still was, for that matter, for he was even now making alterations under instructions from the men high in authority—demands necessitated by the ever-changing nature of the warfare at the front that both Katharine and I felt we would rather know nothing at all about it. Katharine expressed my own thought in decisive words.

"If I don't know anything about it," she said, "I can't even blink a surprised, expressive eyelash if anybody questions me about it. I want my ignorance of what Jack is doing to be abysmal."

That abysmal ignorance was mine also, I reflected, as we finished the last of our kumquats, and sipped our last cups of Chinese tea. Then my father rang for Gus, and while he was clearing the table my father questioned him concerning the boys.

"I think they're fast asleep, sir," Gus said.

"And the sooner we get to work, you can be fast asleep too, Margaret," my father said, when the man had left the room. "Get your pad of paper and your pencils, Jack, and I'll look up my code."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Chiggers

THEY BELONG to the family of the Trombidiidae. They are of the genus Leptus and the two species you are interested in are Leptus Americanus and Leptus irritans. To you, they are just plain chiggers.

Chiggers are found pretty much all over the United States, except, perhaps, in the Pacific Coast region. I have never heard of them out there, but they may be. They are found in the Atlantic seaboard states from New York to Georgia, and in those regions there is only one species. In southern and midwestern states, as far north as Minnesota and Wisconsin, another species is found. They may be much more widely distributed than that—I am sticking to the regions where scientific study has identified them.

Their favorite local habitat is in woodlands where there is a considerable growth of underbrush. Blackberry bushes are their especially favorite haunts. They are not found in cultivated fields or in well kept lawns and parks. Picnicking sites are dandy for them, as we all know only too well—river banks, around lovely little lakes. Their distribution is patchy, however. Some places which seemed ideal for them have been combed and examined year after year without finding any while close woodland characteristics they are found in plentious abundance.

One of the things we don't know about them is what they feed on. The popular belief that they live on berries and fruit juices cannot be substantiated. The idea that they live as parasites on small animals also falls down. Such small animals have been examined repeatedly without finding any chiggers. They have been found attached to the skin of snakes.

The season of their activity is from about July second to the end of September. But they are not so fierce as the summer wears out.

The popular belief that they climb up the body and get in on the chest and in the armpits also breaks down under experimental investigation. They get into the ankles and knees, and if you walk waist high through bushes where they live you will get them at the level of contact, but the fellow who got them under the armpit lay down so as to give them a good chance.

They are very small—150 microns, about twenty times as big as a human red blood cell—invisible to the naked eye though they can be seen with a hand lens. They pass through the weave of any ordinary clothing.

Attacked to Skin

They do not burrow into the skin, but sink their pincerlike jaws into the skin and stay attached. They are especially likely to seize the skin at the edge of a hair follicle as a good place to get a grip.

The itching to a sensitive individual from a set of chigger bites is almost intolerable. It is worst on the third day, but lasts unless treated for about eight days. A widespread and serious infestation will cause a fever and prostration although death has never been reported. In Japan, however, a similar mite causes the fatal Japanese river fever.

For treatment any antiseptic that will kill the creature, or any anti-itching lotion is helpful. A small bottle of straight carbolic and dipping the stick end of a match in the liquid so that it is just moistened and touching each bite does the trick. The carbolic stops itching and kills the bug at the same time.

For prevention for those going in the woods, sprinkle sulphur powder with a talcum shaker over the skin and clothing is 100 per cent efficient.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. R.: Is it safe to reduce with a licensed physician at a clinic using thyroid extract and will it have any effect on the eyes?

Answer: The thyroid disease known as exophthalmic goiter causes protrusion of the eyeballs, but no one has ever been able to produce this effect with thyroid extract. The amount of thyroid extract used in reducing treatments is never enough, if properly given, to do any bodily harm.

G. W. M.: Is there a permanent cure other than operation for a ruptured intervertebral disk?

Answer: Most of them get well or adjust with time.

E. W. T.: In answer to a question regarding electric treatments for cataract you said they were not to be used because they wasted time when real treatments would be beneficial. To what treatments do you refer, as my doctor leads me to think there is no treatment.

Answer: The proper treatment of a cataract is to be under the care of an oculist who will watch the cataract until the exact time it ripens and is proper for surgical removal.

Pearls require skin moisture to show up at their best.
